VOL. XXIX ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 15, 1896.—TEN PAGES. PRICE FIVE CENTS

THREE MEN SHOT TO DEATH IN COLUMBUS

WHITE AND HIS SON GO GUNNING FOR POLICEMEN BECAUSE OF AN ARREST

After Shooting Adams and Jackson, They Fatally Wound Officer Roberts Through a Door.

MURDERERS SURROUNDED BUT REFUSE TO SURRENDER WHEN ORDERED TO GIVE UP

Six Men Determine To Make the Arrests and Crash Through the Door. Another Officer Wounded, but White Falls Dead with Ten Bullets in His Body. Son Is in Jail.

Columbus, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Two members of the Columbus police force were murdered on the streets of this city at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, another officer fatally wounded, while a fourth was shot through the thigh.

In attempting to effect the arrest of the murderer a posse shot him to death, making three dead as a result of the series of tragedies which occurred this afternoon. The succession of tragedies may be followed by a lynching tonight or tomorrow.

Officers Richard M. Adams and William Jackson were killed by J. A. White, an ex-policeman and shoemaker, and his son, Henry White.

The crime was committed without provocation, and the people of Columbus were thrown into a state of the greatest excitement. White and his son escaped the crowd which quickly gathered, and they succeeded in reaching their home, a short distance from the scene of the killing.

The alarm was given, and the house of the Whites was surrounded by 500 men, determined to prevent the escape of the murderers.

Officer Charles Roberts went to the house and commanded the Whites to surrender, but he was answered by a shot from inside and a bullet plowing its way through his body as he stood in front of the door of the murderers' home. The brave officer fell mortally wounded, and he is barely alive tonight.

Some time after Roberts was shot, six men volunteered to arrest White and his son, and they surrounded the house. The door was broken down and fire opened on the two men.

White was wounded at the first fire, and his body was riddled with bullets by the attacking party.

He died in a few seconds. Henry White managed to escape during the excitement, and he succeeded in getting across the Chattahoochee river on the Alabama side.

A big posse started in pursuit, and at a late hour tonight White was captured and brought to the city. It is feared that he will be lynched before day.

The startling double murder occurred in front of Rumsey's saloon, at the corner of First avenue and Thirteenth street. The elder White deliberately shot Officer Adams to death and then he and his son killed Officer Jackson.

The latter lay on the ground mortally wounded, but the bloodthirsty murderers were not satisfied with that and they continued to fire into the body of the dying man, despite his pitiful cries for mercy.

They Were Bent on Murder.

The crime was committed in full view of many people and its horror will never be forgotten by those who witnessed the shooting.

White and his son were bent on murder and with inhuman thirst for blood they shot the two officers to death.

The reports of the rifles used by the father and son were heard for some distance and the excitement was intense when it became known that two officers had been killed.

Cries of "lynch them" were heard and threats were made against the willful slayers of the police.

People from every section of the city soon gathered about the scene of the shooting and men began to think of some plan by which justice could be meted out to the murderers.

The fact that the Whites had shot the officers for no other cause than that they had served the elder White with a subpoena to appear in court tomorrow caused an intense feeling to take possession of the people and it was determined that the murderers should suffer.

They had taken refuge in their home and the excited people gathered in the vicinity, knowing that the shooting was not at an end.

Officer Jackson, of Girard; Zeno Pickett, an officer, and four other men, armed themselves with guns and pistols and with brave determination they went to White's house to take him dead or alive.

They knocked in the door and before they could shoot White to death he succeeded in shooting Officer Pickett in the thigh.

Ten wounds were given White and he died, after having shot two men to death, another fatally and a third seriously.

The attacking party searched the house for Henry White, but he made his way through a back door and escaped the posse.

Had Imaginary Grievance.

J. A. White, the elder, was about fifty years old. His son Henry is nineteen years old. Both are shoemakers.

The father was known to be eccentric, but he was never regarded as a man of unsound mind; he was an ex-policeman. Both were well known in the city.

This morning J. A. White became involved in a difficulty with James Jewell, a Chattahoochee county farmer. The trouble was the result of an old grudge White bore against the farmer.

Officers Jackson and Adams arrested White and gave him a summons to appear before the recorder tomorrow morning for disorderly conduct. The action of the officers in subpoenaing White seemed to anger him. He was drinking and afterwards made threats against the officers.

White went home and when returning to the city this afternoon he was heard to make threats against the officers. He went to a gun shop on Broad street, where he purchased a supply of cartridges. Several persons noticed him walking up the street with his winchester rifle on his shoulder and his bag of cartridges by his side.

As he left the gun store he said something about cleaning out the police force. White repaired to Rumsey's bar at the corner of Fifth avenue and Thirteenth street, where he met his son, Henry White.

The son was armed with a Colt's pistol and had a plentiful supply of cartridges.

About that time Officers Jackson and Adams appeared at the front door of the bar and asked the barkeeper to tell White to step outside a moment, as they wished to see him.

Begins the Fatal Shooting.

The elder White did not come to the front, but walked out into the back yard of the saloon. From there he gained a side street by going through a crack in the fence.

At the other end of the saloon on the corner, and in full view, stood the two officers. White flung his gun to his shoulder and shouted:

"I told you to get ready, and if you ain't ready you ought to be."

He began shooting as quick as he could manipulate the rifle, firing several shots without stopping. Officer Adams fell, dying a few minutes afterwards at the Varnum hotel, where he was carried.

One of the first shots struck Officer Jackson in the abdomen. When his father began firing Henry White ran through the saloon, and jerking out his pistol, he, too, began shooting at Officer Jackson, who had not then fallen. The officer seemed to be too weak to use his pistol, although he tried to do so, being severely wounded.

He pleaded just before sinking to the ground:

"Please don't shoot any more."

In the meantime the elder White was crossing the street. Both of the officers were down.

Young White called out with a curse:

The father turned and deliberately aimed at the prostrate body of Officer Jackson and fired once more.

Third Officer Shot Down.

The two murderers, father and son, then started up First avenue toward their home on Sixteenth street. This was 2:30 o'clock. The news of the double murder spreading, hundreds of excited people gathered on the scene.

It was reported that White had killed another policeman up the street. Investigation revealed that Officer Charles Roberts went to his house to arrest him. He was alone, no other officers having arrived. The brave discharge of his duty may cost Roberts his life.

He knocked at the door and the elder White called out, "Come in." As the officer put his hand on the knob White fired at him deliberately through the door.

The bullet entered Officer Roberts's side and passed through a portion of his body. Roberts fell fatally wounded.

Several persons in the vicinity saw the shooting and running to the scene they conveyed the bleeding policeman across the street. They were not molested by White and he did not fire any more until his house was attacked.

Officer Roberts was carried to the hospital. There is only a slight chance for his recovery.

A large number of the police force of the city were armed with winchesters and they proceeded to White's house where he was at bay. The shoemaker was known to be desperate and it was thought to mean death to the man who ventured into his yard.

Several thousand people gathered, filling the streets in the vicinity, but they kept a a safe distance from the house. The house was surrounded by police, but the attack was delayed for a long time.

White's family had fled from the house and told the police that it was death for any man to go to the place.

Finally, however, about 5 o'clock, six men, led by Officer Jackson, of Girard, volunteered to storm the house. Taking six winchesters they approached the house and stepped upon the front porch. They kicked the door down and as it fell in two or three men sprang inside.

Ten Bullets Pierce White.

The elder White was ready for them and in his front room with his rifle. But one of the officers fired first and the shoemaker fell to his knees.

White was wounded, but as he fell he fired, the bullet striking Officer Zeno Pickett. He was one of the leaders of the squad. Before White could fire again several bullets were fired into his body and he died in a few moments.

The premises were searched, but Henry White could not be found. It was afterwards discovered that he had slipped off down the river before his home was surrounded. He was seen passing through the city and was carried over the river to the Alabama side in a fisherman's boat.

The two murdered officers were among the most popular men of the force. Officer Allen was one of the oldest and most efficient men on the force. Both were highly esteemed and their tragic death has cast a gloom over the city.

There May Be a Lynching.

J. A. White was a candidate for mayor several years ago and he afterwards ran for sheriff. He once said that he was a candidate for president of the United States. This latter remark was looked upon as a joke by many, and while White was regarded as peculiar, he was not thought to be insane to the deepest point. Young White was not considered a desperate character.

Henry White made his way eight miles in the country before he was overtaken by three officers. He was brought to the city and lodged in jail by Officers Osborne and Threlkeld and another man.

The excitement is still intense at midnight and the people are talking about nothing except the tragic events of the day.

THREE ROBBERS SHOT DOWN.

TRIO OF THIEVES TRY TO LOOT A MEEKER, COL., BANK.

Pistols Are Brought Into Play Promiscuously and the Raid Ends in the Death of the Miscreants.

Rawlins, Wyo., October 14.—A. C. Moulton, of this place, today received word from Meeker, Col., to the effect that one of the boldest attempts at bank robbery that has occurred for some time was undertaken by three men yesterday.

Meeker is located sixty miles from a railroad or telegraph station and the only news of the affair so far known was brought out by stage and is very meager. The three strangers entered Meeker during the day, making their way to the store of Hugus & Co., where the bank of Meeker is located.

They succeeded in holding up the clerks on duty, also the bank cashier, and looting the bank, but as soon as they reached the street in their effort to escape they were met by several citizens and a hot battle ensued.

After the smoke had cleared away the three robbers were found lying dead and one clerk, Victor Dikeman, and a citizen named William Clark had received serious wounds from the bullets fired by the robbers before they were mowed down.

Photographs will be taken of the three dead robbers in the hopes of identifying them. It is believed they are part of a gang who came over the Colorado line from Utah a couple of years ago and attempted to hold up the bank at Delta, Col., where they killed the president of that bank, but before they could get out of town two of their number were shot and killed by a prominent hardware merchant of that place.

LITTLE NEGRO BOY USES PISTOL.

Shoots His Nephew Because He Refuses To Obey.

Augusta, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Augusta has a youthful would-be murderer. Coot Fields, a negro boy, aged seven years, today quarreled with his nephew, Charley Blair, five years old, and told him he was going to shoot him if he did not do as he told him. Charley was obstinate, and Coot ran to the bureau drawer, procured a pistol and banged away. The bullet entered Charley's chin and came out by his left ear—a painful, but not dangerous, wound.

COLLISION, AND THEN HOLOCAUST

TWO MEN BURNED IN A CAR

Horrified Passengers Look on Helplessly and Hear Dying Groans.

LINES, THOMAS AND ULMER ARE DEAD

Despite Speed of Trains None of the Passengers Were Hurt—Engineer Sent Orders Incorrectly.

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—Passenger train No. 35, from the north, due here at 4:50 a. m., and train No. 36, leaving here last night at 11:25, on the Florida Central and Peninsular railroad, came together near Swansea, 120 miles from here, this morning at 3:05 o'clock.

It was a head-end collision and both engines were totally wrecked. The combination mail and baggage car on train No. 35 turned over and pinned down in the debris Baggage Master Lines and Mail Clerk Thomas.

The car caught fire and they were burned to death, being unable to extricate themselves. None of the passengers were seriously hurt, though many were bruised and badly shaken up.

W. E. Ulmer, flagman, is missing and is undoubtedly among the killed. Ulmer was last seen standing between the first and second class coaches. He was doubtless caught in one of the telescoped cars and burned up in the wreck, together with Lines and Thomas.

Thomas is supposed to have been killed outright, as he was in the forward end of the combination mail and passenger coach, which was telescoped by being driven upon the tender.

Lines Dies Horrible Death.

Lines's death was a horrible one. He was not killed outright, but was caught under trunks and other wreckage. His cries for help attracted attention and an effort was made to rescue him.

The cars burst into flames almost immediately after the wreck occurred and before help could reach Lines he was surrounded by flames.

A barred window prevented the rescuers from reaching Lines and while they were trying to pry open the bars he fell back in the flames. The horrified passengers listened to his screams without being able to render any assistance.

The engineers and firemen of the two trains jumped and escaped without injuries. Mail Clerk James, Express Messenger T. C. Farmer and Extra Express Messenger F. W. Price suffered slight injuries. Not a single passenger was injured. There were very few passengers in the day coach, nearly all the passengers being in the two Pullman cars, one Pullman being in the rear of each train. The Pullman cars were not damaged. Although the accident occurred on a high embankment, not a single car left the track, not even the wrecked cars.

How the Accident Occurred.

Train No. 35 left Columbia over an hour late and was instructed to wait at Swansea, twenty-three miles south of Columbia, for No. 36. The engineer of No. 35 read his order "Sweden," a station thirty miles further on, instead of "Swansea." Before the conductor, who read the order properly, could ring him down, the collision occurred.

News of the wreck was telegraphed Savannah and Columbia. Physicians were sent from Columbia to attend the wounded and a wrecking train was sent up from Savannah.

COLLISION IN WHICH THREE MEN ARE KILLED.

Electric Car Was Struck by Locomotive and Cut Half in Two—List of Casualties.

Hazleton, Pa., October 14.—Three men were killed, two others were fatally hurt and a score of other people injured in a collision between a locomotive and a trolley car here this evening.

The dead are:

DAVID JOHN WILLIAMS, of Plymouth, Pa.

The fatally injured are Morris Ferry, a boy, skull fractured and internally hurt; Patrick Doud, conductor of trolley car, skull fractured.

Of the thirty passengers aboard the trolley car none escaped injury of some kind.

The cause of the accident cannot be stated definitely tonight. The coroner is investigating, and an exhaustive inquiry will have to be made to determine it. The trolley car stopped at the railroad station to place a mail bag in the office before crossing the railroad track. It was night and a heavy fog prevailed. Several men got aboard the car and the forward end had just passed over the crossing when an engine without a headlight dashed into the car, cutting it in half.

The engine was stopped as soon as possible and the dead and injured were taken from the wreck. The greatest excitement prevails here tonight, and hundreds of people are beseeching the officers of the traction company, inquiring if their friends and relatives are among the injured.

SUFFOCATED IN A GAS TANK.

Two Men Asphyxiated While Doing Repair Work at Syracuse.

Syracuse, N. Y., October 14.—Michael Boyd and a man named Murphy, in the employ of the Solvay Process Company, were asphyxiated at noon today in a large gas tank located at the company's works at Solvay. The men had entered the tank to do some repairs, supposing that the gas had been turned off. A few hours afterwards the men were discovered dead.

EXPLAINS WHY HE WILL RAISE WAGES

SHOWS REASONS FOR PROMISE

TELLS OF THE STEADY FALL IN SALARIES

Correspondence Has Grown to Such Proportions That He Is Forced To Print His Answers.

Newark, O., October 14.—In answer to the many inquiries pouring in from Alabama to Michigan and Maine to California, President C. W. Cunningham tonight issued the following circular letter:

Newark, C., October 14, 1896. Dear Sir: Replying to your favor of recent date, making inquiry about the promised increase in wages of the Central City Stove Company's employes in case William J. Bryan is elected president, I desire in the first place to assure you that the published report is true. In the second place, to ask your pardon for sending you this circular letter instead of a personal reply.

The almost countless number of communications similar to yours that I have received from fifteen different states makes a personal reply impracticable, as it would take my entire time between now and election day to dictate separate answers.

However, I think the following will answer your questions:

I have always been a republican, and have voted twice for McKinley. There are twenty moulders in our foundry who have always voted the republican ticket. This year we are for Bryan and the restoration of silver.

Our reason for offering to increase wages in case Bryan wins is that we know that the success of our business depends upon the prosperity of America, and that the prosperity of America will only be brought about by the restoration of the silver dollar.

Prior to 1873 the iron molders of the country received from 50 to 60 cents "on board." This means that for every dollar earned, they received from 50 to 60 cents additional. With the demonetization of silver came a fall in wages up to 1879, when molders received 25 cents "off board," or only 75 cents for every dollar earned.

The Bland-Allison act so stimulated business in the west that greater demand for the molder's product—in fact for all manufactured products—was made. Business increased and wages went up. The Sherman purchasing act had a similar effect, but its repeal brought stagnation to the west and as a result many orders for manufactured goods were countermanded. The Central City Stove Works felt the effects of the repeal of this law and I know whereof I speak.

A higher tariff law than we now have will not, in my opinion, restore prosperity, but will result in breeding trusts. The present tariff law, I believe, is sufficiently high to protect all manufacturers in this country and the only thing yet needed to restore activity to business is the free coinage of both gold and silver.

The Central City Stove Company, whose capacity is 40 to 50 stoves a day, offers to advance its men's wages because under free coinage increased prosperity will enable us to do so. We pay union wages and all our stoves bear union labels.

Mr. McKinley says to open the mills and close the mints, but I believe by opening the mints, the mills will open themselves.

Thanking you for your interest in the matter, I am, very truly yours,

C. W. CUNNINGHAM,
President Central City Stove Co.

EXCITEMENT IN HENRY COUNTY.

Negro Man Assaults Young White Lady—Posses After Him.

Luella, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—About 4 o'clock this afternoon as Miss Blanche Gray was returning home from this village, where she had been shopping, when about two miles from here was assaulted by a negro man, who approached her from behind and grabbed her by the throat.

Posses of men are searching the woods in all directions and if he is caught there will be an immediate execution.

BAD RIOT IN BRITISH GUIANA.

Strike of Laborers Against Reduction of Wages the Cause.

Kingston, Ja., October 14.—A dispatch received here from Georgetown, British Guiana, says that alarming riots have occurred among the coolies in Demara. The ringleaders of the rioters were arrested, and while they were being taken to the lockup by the police who had them in custody the latter were attacked by the mob and were finally obliged to fire upon their assailants. Three of the rioters were killed and many others wounded. The rioting was the outcome of a strike among the laborers against a reduction in wages recently made.

PAT TEBEAU BEATS ELMER PASCO

Cleveland, O., October 14.—Elmer E. Pasco, a well-known Cleveland newspaper man, was brutally assaulted last night by Pat Tebeau, manager, and Jack O'Connor, one of the members of the Cleveland league team. The three men met in the cafe of the Kennard house. The ball players had been drinking. Tebeau accused Pasco of having written a story about a quarrel between him and McAleer. Pasco denied it and finally called Tebeau a liar.

Tebeau knocked Pasco down and, it is said, kicked him. Then O'Connor jumped on Pasco and left the marks of one of his heels on his face. He was unconscious when pulled away from the infuriated ball players. He was delirious all night and will probably be laid up for several days. His face was beaten almost to a jelly. Pasco refuses to swear out warrants for the arrest of the ball players.

HAS WATSON SENT IT?

It Is Stated That Senator Butler Now Has the Epistle of Acceptance.

Has Tom Watson sent on his letter of acceptance to Chairman Marion Butler? A special last night from Chicago states that Butler has received the letter but has not yet given it out for publication.

Watson could not be reached last night.

It is understood that National Committeeman Reed was the bearer of the document to Senator Butler, but the message was received too late to get a word from the populist chairman.

UNION PACIFIC TRAIN ROBBED.

Two Men Succeed in Overpowering Train Men and Get Off with Booty.

Salt Lake City, Utah, October 14.—The Union Pacific train due at 3:15 this morning was held up a short distance from Uintah, at the mouth of Weber canyon and about eight miles from Ogden. A train was made up at Ogden and sent to the scene of the robbery and orders were given to organize a posse and run the robbers down. The passengers were not molested, the robbers confining their operations to the mail and express cars. Railway officials report that all the booty secured was a few mail bags, but whether or not these contained any valuables is not known.

The robbers, two in number, boarded the train at Peterson, a small station in the heart of Weber canyon. If the special train bearing the officers makes good time it is quite possible that the bandits may be caught, as it is impossible for them to get out of the canyon save by the eastern routes, and all stations east of Uintah have been notified of the robbery. The robbers surprised the engineer by suddenly rising up from behind the tank and covering him with a gun. They gave the fireman a cotton sack and told him to put it over his head. The engineer was then told to run along until ordered to stop. A few seconds later the robbers on the engine had been joined by another and the train was ordered stopped.

The engineer was then ordered to point out the express car, which he did, and while the attention of the robbers was distracted he ran to Uintah and gave the alarm. The baggage and express cars were uncoupled and run ahead of the train some 300 yards and both the mail and express cars were broken open. The robbers failed, however, to get into the safe. After the robbers left, the train was made up again and taken into Ogden.

Up to this time no news has been received from the several posses of officers who are scouring the hills in search of traces of the men who held up the Union Pacific train this morning. Officers now think it was the work of one man who had a sack over his head and who forced two trainmen at the point of a pistol, to put sacks over their heads and march with him to the rear of the train to convey the impression that there were three robbers.

The registered mail pouch thrown out by the robbers was the through California pouch. That to Salt Lake was not taken. It contained an unusually heavy amount of money, one package of $25,000 alone being consigned to Wells-Fargo bank in this city. Sheriffs of four counties are joined in the search.

TENNESSEE TOWN TERRORIZED.

Robbers Descend Upon It, Intimidate Citizens and Loot Stores.

Nashville, Tenn., October 14.—A gang of masked men looted the little town of Peryear, in Henry county, early this morning. The citizens were awakened at 4 o'clock by the sound of an explosion and the firing of guns and revolvers.

Those residents who were daring enough to leave their houses were warned to return under pain of death. In order to intimidate the people the gang kept up an incessant discharge of their firearms.

There were eight men in the party and all were heavily masked. After robbing a number of stores, the gang set fire to several buildings and then fled to the country. After the fires had been subdued, a posse was formed and started in pursuit of the marauders.

The exact amount of money and valuables secured by the gang is not known, but it is estimated that they got away with at least $3,000 in money.

FATALLY WOUNDED THE GIRL.

Then Turned His Pistol on Himself and Died.

Cincinnati, O., October 14.—(Special.)—D. Harry Sollars, aged 25, shot Miss Clio Russell, here tonight. He then shot himself.

Sollars is dead and the girl cannot survive the night. Sollars came here last Sunday and registered from Denver, Col. His former home was in Washington Courrthouse, Ohio. The girl came here from Celina, Ohio, one year ago. Sollars had known her in childhood. He arrived here several days ago after a long absence in the west and met the girl.

From notes left by Sollars it is thought the woman knew of his intention and had agreed to meet death with him. Just before committing the tragedy Sollars drew a check for $500 on the First National Bank of Denver. He explained that the amount was to pay the funeral expenses of the girl and himself.

HENSLER'S WOUND WAS FATAL.

His Father Mistaking Him for a Burglar Shot Him.

Villa Rica, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Thomas Hensler, the young man who was shot by his father Saturday night while climbing through the window to his room, died last night at 9 o'clock. Some one had attempted to enter Mr. Hensler's house the night before. Mr. Hensler was aroused late Saturday night by his son opening the window. Thinking his son was a burglar he shot him.

Mr. Hensler is nearly heart-broken, and fears are entertained that the terrible accident will dethrone his reason and he will do himself bodily harm.

OHIO CONVICT CUTS HIS THROAT

Burglar Smith Nearly Severs His Head with a Knife.

Columbus, O., October 14.—John Smith, a burglar serving a term in the state prison here, committed suicide by cutting his throat. His parents live at No. 1034 North Second street, Philadelphia. So desperate was the stroke that the head was almost severed from the body.

WHAT BUTLER AND JONES SAY

Manifesto of Populist Executive Committee Applauded.

MEANS MUCH TO THE NOMINEE

Third Party Chairman Is in Hearty Sympathy with Contents.

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN IS PLEASED

Committeeman Reed Believes That Mr. Watson Will Not Antagonize the Desires of the Committee as Unanimously Voiced in the Address.

Chicago, October 14.—(Special.)—The manifesto of the populist executive committee burst like a bombshell this morning and it has cleared the political atmosphere.

The action of the committee was unanimous. Without exception its members are enthusiastic over the address. They believe that it will straighten out the wrinkles in the several states where fusion has not yet been effected, and that it will serve a good purpose in its effect upon the national campaign.

The most striking thing about the pronunciamento is the fact that it is signed by Mr. H. W. Reed, the member from Georgia and Mr. Watson's traveling companion in his recent tour through the west. Mr. Reed is regarded as Mr. Watson's personal representative and the fact that he had indorsed with his signature the manifesto is creating comment, as indicating Mr. Watson's position.

If either means this, or it means that Mr. Reed, after carefully studying the situation, concluded that it was best to retire personal interests and join in the fight for the cause for which both democrats and populists are now contending. Many telegrams have been received today from all parts of the country, in which members of the populist executive committee are given the cordial approval of leading populists throughout the country.

The address, as already published, makes a firm and unyielding stand in favor of the union of all forces opposing the single gold standard.

Forces Must Be United.

The committee realizes that with the free coinage forces divided the fight for currency reform will be placed at an unnecessary disadvantage, and that, with both democrats and populists working in harmony in every state, many states which are now considered doubtful can be classed as certain Bryan states.

The committee would have taken this action some weeks ago had it not been for Mr. Watson's position. It was the committee's desire that Mr. Watson should first agree to the fusion plan, but his recent public announcements have indicated that he was growing decidedly more antagonistic toward a union of forces between democrats and populists.

But the committee thought that some definite action should be taken, and while it was not its purpose to offend Mr. Watson, it recognizes the fact that its address is directly opposed to his views.

It hopes Mr. Watson will now yield gracefully and join in the effort to bring about compact fusion in every state, but if Mr. Watson still continues opposed to it the committee will proceed to act independently. It believes that the issue at stake is of more importance than Mr. Watson's personal views, and while it does not wish to take issue with him, it is prepared to do so, if necessary.

Mr. Reed will leave for Georgia tomorrow morning for a personal consultation with Mr. Watson. The situation will be presented fully to Mr. Watson, and he will be asked to co-operate with the committee in its effort to unite the free coinage forces by fusion tickets in every state.

What Senator Butler Says.

Speaking of the matter, Senator Butler, chairman of the populist executive committee, said today:

"I think the committee has adopted a wise course, and I believe that upon reflection, its action will receive Mr. Watson's approval. As chairman of the populist committee, I deem it to be my duty to do everything to contribute to the success of the fight for free coinage, currency reform. It would be monstrous for us to go to the ballot box with divided forces to meet the united and organized phalanxes of the monopolists and the money power.

"Personally, I would have preferred a plan by which we could have united on Bryan and Watson, but since this is impossible, we have adopted what seems to be the next best thing. Mr. Bryan is as much our nominee as he is that of the democrats. They nominated a candidate for the vice presidency and we nominated Mr. Watson.

"Since they feel that they cannot conscientiously withdraw Mr. Sewall, we believe that the patriotic course for us to pursue is to unite with the democrats on a fusion ticket which will recognize each of the contending vice presidential elements and harmonize in the effort to solidify the silver forces on Bryan. If this policy is followed

BIKES ARE BAGGAGE

A St. Louis Judge Renders an Important Decision on Wheels.

ROADS MUST CARRY THEM FREE

They Are as Much Personal Baggage, He Holds, as a Gun—All Riders Are Not Cranks.

Judge Russell, of St. Louis, has decided that bicycles are baggage and must be carried free by railroads.

This is a very important matter to the railroads. Here in the south most of the roads are now checking wheels on the payment of 25 cents. Some of the roads will carry a wheel free without a check, but that is risky, as several wheels have been lost in that way.

The decision by the St. Louis judge was in a suit brought by J. R. Bettis against the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, which refused to carry his bicycle unless he paid 25 cents, the regular charge.

An order to show cause was issued and the company moved to quash the alternative writ. Judge Russell first discusses the question whether mandamus is the proper remedy in such cases, and he concludes that it is, and that the suit may be brought by a private party. Any citizen may bring a suit where a public right is involved, and a writ of mandamus is the remedy when a corporation fails in its duty to the public. In a case like the present, mandamus seems to be necessary to avoid a multiplicity of suits.

Then the question presents itself: Is a bicycle baggage? Judge Russell discusses the matter at some length, and finds that the law regards baggage to include not merely articles of personal apparel, but also other articles with reference not only to one's immediate necessities, but to the ultimate purpose of the journey. An artist's easel, a sportsman's gun case, and a sailor's telescope, have been held to be baggage. On this point the judge says that not everything which only a crank or an eccentric person would take with him is considered as baggage, and he adds: "It is true that it has not been many years since those addicted to bicycle riding were regarded as cranks, but his class has grown and his tribe has multiplied until it threatens to include all mankind, and we are forced to accord the wheelmen the average human intelligence, and we cannot now say that only a crank would carry with him a wheel."

A bicycle then comes within the rule. The judge finds that it is a machine or vehicle in very common use among a large class of people for health, recreation and locomotion, and is largely used at the end of a journey for health or recreation. Bicyclists form a decidedly large class, and the courts must take notice of them as of other matters that impress themselves on the senses. It would be foolish for the courts to assert, in view of what they see every day, that the wheelmen do not compose a very substantial part of the community. In conclusion, Judge Russell overrules the motion to quash the alternative writ.

THE RECEIVER DISCHARGED.

The Southern Will Settle All Proper Claims Against the Georgia Pacific.

On motion of Mr. Leslie Ryan, counsel for the receiver, Mr. Samuel Spencer, the receivership of the Georgia Pacific was dissolved yesterday by Judge Newman, of the United States circuit court. This winds up the litigation over the old company and it passes out of legal existence.

The other parties to the action were the Central Trust Company of New York, represented by Butler, Stillman & Hubbard; the purchasing committee of the Southern railway, represented by Francis Lynde Stetson, and the Georgia Pacific and the Richmond and Danville, represented by Henry Crawford. Mr. Ryan was the only New York lawyer present.

A RATE COMMITTEE MEETING.

Freight Association People Met at the Equitable Yesterday.

A meeting of the rate committee of the freight association was held yesterday at the Equitable. The attendance was not very large. Among those present were General Freight Agent F. B. Papy, of the Plant system; General Freight Agent H. F. Smith, of the Southern, and W. H. Fitzgerald, commissioner of the associated lines of Virginia. Traffic Manager Culp, of the Southern, is expected here this morning. The meeting will probably continue until Saturday, as the list of subjects is long and some of the parties complaining are weary of waiting and are threatening to make trouble before the state legislature and the state railroad commission.

COMMISSION MEETS TOMORROW.

Railroad Commission Will Take Up a Number of Important Cases.

The state railroad commission will meet at the capitol tomorrow and take up several important cases which have been pending for sometime. The commission adjourned a day or two before the state election and no session has been held since that time.

Among the cases to be taken up by the commission are the 1,000 mile book 2 cent rate question, the American marble case and the celebrated Wrightsville and Tennille railroad case.

The 2 cent mileage question will come in on the petition of the Traveling Men's Association. They have asked the railroad commission to require the railroads to put on sale a 1,000 mile book at a 2 cent rate, the books to be good on all branches or divisions of the line issuing the book. The question is one of interest to many traveling men and others and the case will precipitate a warm fight before the commission.

$100,000 FOR AUGUSTA.

The City Drives a Sharp Trade with the Railroads.

Augusta, Ga., October 14.—The several railroads entering Augusta were represented at a conference today between the city council and the merchants and manufacturers in reference to a contract between the city and the railroads for the use of certain streets. The Southern, the Augusta and Port Royal and the Port Royal and Western Carolina and the Central of Georgia agreed to pay the city a bonus of $100,000 for the use of a certain street for thirty years, and not to charge the merchants and manufacturers more than $2 per car for transfer of freight from one road to another, and to make free deliveries to merchants and manufacturers located on their lines.

The Georgia Railroad did not agree to the contract, and the Georgia and South Carolina railroad was not represented at the conference.

Examining the Books Now.

J. H. Leonard, of The New York Mail and Express, a good authority, says that despite all denials, the Seaboard system has passed into the control of Thomas F. Ryan and all that remains to complete the transfer is a verification of the financial statements. The Seaboard's earnings increased $40,000 during August and September while the rate war was on and the other roads were losing.

Southern's Men Are Prominent.

Southern railway men are coming to the front in the Northern Pacific. Among the new directors are President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern; Charles H. Caster, who bought in the old Richmond Terminal properties for Mr. J. P. Morgan; Francis Lynde Stetson, general counsel of the Southern and President Cleveland's former law partner; Walter G. Oakman, formerly president of the Richmond Terminal, and James Stillman, of counsel for the Central Trust Company of New York; John D. Rockefeller, the Standard Oil magnate; Edward D. Adams, Charlemagne Tower, Jr., Robert Galloway, D. Willis James, Robert Bacon, Eben B. Thomas, Edwin W. Winter, Dumont Clarke and Brayton Ives are the other members of the Northern Pacific's directory.

Commissioner Names the Rate.

The roads at interest having failed to agree on a rate for the convention of the National Association of Agricultural Improvement and Vehicle Manufacturers to be held at Nashville November 17th and 18th. The commissioner names a rate of one standard limited first-class fare for the round trip applicable from all points.

WILL HAVE TO PAY THE POLICY.

Decision Which Affects Assesment Associations.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 14.—(Special.)—An important suit was decided in the United States circuit court today involving the payment of a death claim of an assessment insurance association. The late Judge Hugh Whiteside held a policy in the Improved Order of Heptasophs for $5,000. After Judge Whiteside's death his attorney applied to have his policy paid, which the supreme officers declined to pay on the ground that he had forfeited by non-payment of assessment No. 155, and that he had been dropped from the roll.

A receipt for the payment of assessment No. 155 was found among Judge Whiteside's papers, but it was admitted that two other assessment notices had been sent the judge after the alleged default of No. 155 and which had not been paid.

It was held that the association, by sending out notices of assessments to Judge Whiteside after an alleged forfeiture, was a waiver of their right to claim any such forfeiture and judgment was given the complainant for the full amount of the policy.

TROUBLE WITH MOONSHINERS.

Attempt To Release Prisoners Causes Some Firing.

Knoxville, Tenn., October 14.—(Special.)—The international revenue collector's office here was notified late this afternoon that Deputy Collectors W. K. Thaxton, of Chattanooga, and McDonald, of Cleveland, were in trouble at Ducktown. Several other telegrams came in short order asking for aid and a posse was quickly summoned by United States Marshal Condon, but just as a special train was ready to carry them to the scene a telegram came saying that the trouble was over.

It seemes that the officers had arrested two moonshiners for transporting whisky and when near the railroad station a mob of mountaineers attempetd to release them. Several shots were fired and one of the mob was wounded. The officers landed their prisoners.

THEY HAVE CHANGED TO BRYAN

Two Former Republicans Speak at Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 14.—W. P. Gillen Waters and Dr. B. W. Padgett, both former republicans, addressed a large crowd at the courthouse tonight on the issue of the campaign, advocating the free coinage of silver and the election of Bryan and Sewall.

MERCHANTS OBJECT TO IT.

Alabama Street Merchants Say the City Ought Not To Transfer Its Lot.

It seems that there will be considerable opposition to the proposed transfer of the city's triangular lot on Wall street, between Whitehall and Pryor streets, unless the state agrees to allow the use of the lot for railroad purposes without charge to other lines than the Western and Atlantic.

The merchants and property owners on Alabama street whose stores are supplied with goods direct from freight cars in the rear, standing on tracks on the city's property, are now objecting to the proposed transfer, they thinking that if the city should dispose of the lot without certain agreements their interests might be injured. They fear that it would be unwise to put it in the power of the state road to charge them or other lines for the use of the tracks on the city lot.

The matter will be acted on at the meeting of the council Monday afternoon and it bids fair to become one of the most important before that session. Alderman Howell will probably oppose the proposed transfer, as will other members of the council who think that it is a dangerous step.

EXTRA CAR IN THE AFTERNOON.

Manager Woodruff Announces Important Change in Schedules.

Mr. Ernest Woodruff, vice president and general manager of the Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company, announces that, beginning today, his company will improve the afternoon car service on two of its lines. From about 5 o'clock until about 6:30 o'clock a triple schedule will be put on on Whitehall and Peachtree streets, and on Marietta and Decatur streets.

The extra cars will be run to accommodate a heavy travel on those streets at the hours stated. On the Whitehall and Peachtree street line cars will run every seven and one-half minutes and the same schedule will be operated on the Marietta and Decatur street line. The Whitehall and Peachtree street line will be operated between Ponce de Leon avenue and Lee street only, the regular cars traversing the regular streets.

WRECKER CRISSWELL WANTED.

Will Be Taken to Twiggs County as a Witness in the Shaw Case.

Tom Crisswell, of Twiggs county, one of the men who was implicated in the wrecking of the Southern railroad passenger train below Macon one night in April last and who was afterwards sent to the penitentiary, is wanted in Twiggs county as a witness in the case of Tom Shaw, one of the wreckers who will be placed on trial at Jeffersonville this week. Governor Atkinson has passed an order directing the authorities to deliver the body of Crisswell to the sheriff of Twiggs county and by him kept until he is discharged as a witness in the case of Shaw. Solicitor General Eason, of the Oconee circuit, made application for the transfer of Convict Crisswell.

Charged with Robbing Stores.

Williamson, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Four negro brothers have been placed in jail in Zebulon as parties who have been robbing stores here, at Zebulon and Jolley.

Dr. Westmoreland Elected President of the Tri-State Medical Society.

SESSION AT CHATTANOOGA

The Society Elected Officers Last Night and Adjourned To Meet in Nashville in 1897.

At a meeting of the Tri-State Medical Society, held at Chattanooga yesterday and last night, Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, of Atlanta, was elected president of the society.

Dr. Westmoreland has taken a leading part in the work of the society and his elevation to the highest office in the society was an expected honor. He went to Chattanooga several days ago to attend the session of the medical men.

The next convention of the society will be held at Nashville. The society is a large and important one and by his selection as president Dr. Westmoreland and Atlanta have been honored. The Atlanta medical men will be pleased to hear of the selection of their associate to preside over the medical society of three states—Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 14.—The eighth annual meeting of the Tri-State Medical Society closed tonight at 11 o'clock, after electing the following corps of officers for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. W. F. Westmoreland, of Atlanta.

Secretary—Dr. F. T. Smith, of Chattanooga.

Treasurer—Dr. George R. West, of Chattanooga.

The society accepted the invitation of the Tennessee centennial directors to meet in Nashville next year. A committee was chosen to report changes in the constitution.

This committee is given plenary powers and will advise such radical changes as to amount almost to a reorganization of the society.

DECISION AGAINST MRS. HATCH.

Failed To Get the Horses the Sheriff Seized.

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 14.—(Special.)—The suit of Mrs. L. S. Hatch against Sheriff Busch, to replevin certain horses that participated in the recent Chattanooga derby and which had been levied on by the sheriff to satisfy judgments against L. S. Hatch, was tried today in a justice court and decision rendered against Mrs. Hatch. The case was appealed to the circuit court.

The trial of Colonel Hatch on a charge of fraudulent breach of trust was continued to 11 o'clock tomorrow. The case has attracted wide attention and will be held in the circuit court room to allow the crowds who want to hear the evidence, an opportunity to do so.

DAY SET FOR THE ARGUMENT.

New Trial in Walling's Case, Pearl Bryan's Slayer.

Frankfort, Ky., October 14.—The court of appeals today fixed October 24th as the date for hearing the argument in the case of Alonzo Walling, sentenced to death for complicity in the murder of Pearl Bryan.

Hanson Speaks for McKinley.

Macon, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Major J. F. Hanson, republican state elector, addressed a crowded audience tonight at the Academy of Music in behalf of McKinley. He was introduced by Harry S. Edwards.

Don't imagine for a minute that fine dresses and accomplishments will deceive anybody. "Murder will out"—everybody knows that. Ralph Waldo Emerson said this in another way. He said practically that you couldn't hide anything you did. He said that what people do, and what they think, and what they eat show in their faces. The body is a plastic record. It shows plainly what is being done to it and with it. It tells the condition of the digestive organs. It plainly blabs about constipation. Foul breath, dull eyes, listlessness, sallowness, pimples are almost unmistakable symptoms. Don't believe that you are the only one that knows your condition. Constipation is a serious matter. There is no form of sickness it may not lead to. It fills the body with impurities. It makes it ready for the reception of any sort of disease germs. It is easy to let it run on into something serious. It is easier to cure it. There is a safe, certain, comfortable cure for such constipation. This cure comes in little vials. Its name is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. The "Pellets" are tiny, sugar-coated granules. One is a gentle laxative; two a mild cathartic. They cure constipation in a perfectly natural way. You do not become a slave to their use. There are hundreds of preparations offered for this same purpose, but none so certain, and none so safe. The trouble with most of them is that they are violent; and in curing one disorder, start others. Dyspepsia may come just as quickly from taking strong medicines, as from taking no medicine at all. Sometimes the remedy is worse than the disease. There is no other preparation similar to Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and so there can be nothing "just as good." Druggists sell them.

in every state, it will insure the election of Mr. Bryan. But, with divided forces, our cause will be greatly weakened and we will go to the ballot box at a great disadvantage.

"I am sure that the action of the committee will meet the approval of conservative populists throughout the country, and I believe that Mr. Watson will recognize that in doing what we have done, we are actuated only by patriotic motives and by a desire to do what is best for the cause."

Sentiments of Senator Jones.

Senator Jones, chairman of the democratic national committee, said:

"The action of the populist committee will go far toward making several states, which are now doubtful, certain for Bryan. It insures Indiana for Bryan and makes his triumph certain in several other states which might otherwise be close.

"I am very much pleased at the action of the committee, and believe that it should meet with the approval of all conservative democrats and that it will lead to fusion in states which have not already adopted this policy.

"With compact fusion and united forces we can certainly elect Bryan. It seems to me that the democrats as well as the populists have but one course to pursue and I will be glad to see democrats act in harmony with the effort of the populists' committee to bring about united action on a fusion basis."

Reed Vouches for Watson.

On being seen tonight Mr. Reed, the populist campaign committeeman from Georgia, said:

"I do not care to discuss the matter further than to say that my signature to the address of the committee was an expression of confidence on my part in the action of the committee.

"I occupy a rather peculiar position because I am a warm personal friend of Mr. Watson and don't wish to be placed in the attitude of antagonizing him in the slightest degree.

"I am sure that Mr. Watson will accept the action of the committee."

THEY WILL GIVE OUT NO NEWS

But the Populist Committee Transacted Important Business.

Chicago, Ill., October 14.—The people's party national executive committee remained in session today, adjourning sine die tomorrow. The members present said that nothing of public interest was done by the committee, only routine matters in different states being disposed of. That important business was transacted yesterday is shown by the departure of Messrs. Sovereign and Breidenthal for their homes this morning.

It was the intention of Chairman Butler and Western Chairman Washburn to have left the city tonight for Atlanta to confer with Mr. Watson, but they could get no train which would arrive in Atlanta in time for Senator Butler to proceed to Washington and North Carolina to fill engagements, so the Atlanta trip was abandoned.

Mr. Reed left for that city tonight, and Chairman Butler returned directly to Washington. He wants to go home particularly to register.

FUSION AFFECTED IN ARKANSAS

Democrats Get Five Presidential Electors—Populists Three.

Little Rock, Ark., October 14.—The state central committee of the people's party announced in a public address that a fusion agreement has been made by the populists and democrats on the electoral ticket by which the populists get three electors and the democrats five.

CANDIDATE WATSON IS NOT ILL.

The Populist's Sore Throat Is His Only Physical Ailment.

Thomson, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Mr. Tom Watson was seen today by a representative of The Constitution in reference to the address sent out from Chicago by the national executive committee of the populist party. He declined to express his opinions or intentions regarding it. He requested that the report that he is now seriously ill be corrected. He denounced as untrue a recent report that he was merely "playing possum."

Dr. E. S. Harrison, Mr. Watson's physician, was seen in regard to Mr. Watson's physical disability. He said that there was a bad throat trouble on account of much public speaking, but that it was not of a serious character, and will heal if properly attended to and not used for public speaking. Physically, with this exception, he is enjoying good health. It will be a week or ten days before Mr. Watson can make another public address, but he is anxious to fill his appointments and will take advantage of his first opportunity to do so.

ADVERSE TO THE PROPOSITION.

North Carolina Populists Reply to the Offer for Certain Fusion.

Raleigh, N. C., October 14.—The populist state committee met here tonight. A number of other leading members of the party were also present. The proposition of the democratic state committee for congressional and legislative fusion was read and discussed. A sub-committee was appointed to draft a reply. The sentiment of a majority of the committee is adverse to the proposition.

The reply informs the democratic committee that it is too late to co-operate, and that an agreement on the line suggested would not be supported by the populists. It calls the attention of the democrats to the declaration in their state platform that the republican party must be defeated as the prime object in view.

The committee says it relies upon the democrats to keep their word on this matter. This virtually means that the only thing that the democrats can do is to support Guthrie, populist nominee, for governor.

BRECKINRIDGE WAS SELECTED

Frankfort, Ky., October 14.—The seventh district republican executive committee met here this afternoon and nominated Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge for congress. There was no opposition.

THEIR DAYS OF TRIAL FIXED.

Alleged Cuban Filibusters To Appeor in New York Court.

New York, October 14.—Judge Benedict, in the United States criminal court today, set the trial of Colonel Emilio Nunez and Captain Dickman, alleged Cuban filibusters, for October 27th, and the trial of General Carlos Roloff for the following day.

At the request of Counsellor Horatio S. Rubens the cases of Captain O'Brien, John D. Hart and Mate Edward Murphy, who are under bail on the same charge, were set for the 29th instant, but it is not likely that they will be reached at that time.

Filled the Committee Vacancy.

Dallas, Tex., October 14.—The vacancy on the populist state ticket for attorney general caused by the resignation of the Hon. W. M. Walton, who joined the democrats, was this evening filled by the state executive committee naming State Senator W. O. Hutchison, of San Marcos, for the place.

HELD UP AN OFFICER

WAS ON HIS OWN PROPERTY

The busy highwaymen, made bold by a successful season's business, are now making prey of officers.

G. W. Patterson, an officer, was attacked in his yard Tuesday night and would doubtless have been injured and robbed had it not been for the promptness with which he used his pistol.

Patterson is a bailiff in Judge Foute's court and lives at 56 Simpson street.

Last Tuesday afternoon he had been out in his buggy serving some papers in the eastern part of the city. It was about 11 o'clock when he drove into the alley leading toward his barn at home. He stepped out of the buggy and began unhitching the horse.

As the officer stepped around his horse with his back towards the stable door a negro slipped stealthily out of the barn. When the negro was within two steps of Patterson and had raised a deadly sandbag for a blow the officer looked around. The negro swung his weapon with terrific force at the officer's head. Patterson dodged and the bag barely grazed his forehead.

Patterson then drew his pistol and fired. The darkness was intense and he could only see a big black figure in front of him. At the first shot the negro staggered forward a few steps and fell to the ground. In a second he was on his feet again and started on a run down the alley.

Patterson raised his revolver and sent another bullet whizzing after the fleeing highwayman. This also struck its mark. The negro fell again to the ground with a groan. He was not fatally injured, however, for he rose the second time and disappeared as fast as his heels could carry him around the corner into Simpson street. That was the last seen of him.

Patterson is confident he shot the negro twice. The police were notified yesterday.

FIXING UP THE STATEHOUSE.

ALABAMA'S CAPITOL IS UNDERGOING NEEDED REPAIRS.

Palmer and Buckner Speak at Montgomery Tonight—Senator Pugh Making Speeches.

Montgomery, Ala., October 14.—(Special.) The state capitol has recently undergone considerable repairs. Chief among the improvements may be mentioned a handsome coat of paint, inside and out. The senate chamber and the hall of the house of representatives have been repaired throughout and look much better than they have in a good many years. Governor Oates had the painting done for an even $1,000, just one-third of the amount it required to have the same work done four years ago.

Skaggs Gums Up the Cards.

W. H. Skaggs, who figured prominently as chairman of the populist campaign committee, in the Alabama campaign of 1894, has made a speech or two in Alabama recently. As might have been expected, Skaggs rung in a new combination. He advised the populists to vote for their candidates for congress and for McKinley and Hobart for president and vice president. Mr. Skaggs is an entertaining speaker, however, and always draws good crowds. He is living in Chicago now, being engaged in the immigration business.

The Prehistoric Orators.

Messrs. Palmer and Buckner will arrive from Birmingham on the regular train tomorrow evening which reaches Montgomery at 8 o'clock, and will, after a light lunch, go to the Montgomery theater, where they will address an especially invited audience. Tickets of admission have been issued by a committee appointed for that purpose and only the elect will be permitted to enter.

Pugh Looking After His Fences.

Senator Pugh is making speeches throughout the state in the interests of Bryan and Sewall and incidentally in the interests of Pugh. The senator's term will expire next spring and the legislature which assembles next month will elect his successor. He has some active and influential contestants in the field and he is getting around among the boys.

Captain Gee's Good Scheme.

Captain John Gee, passenger agent of the Western, was in the city yesterday. He said while here that he was making a new departure for his road this winter. He is trying to divert the California travel from the way of St. Louis and Chicago, over the Southern and Western to Montgomery and thence down the Louisville and Nashville to New Orleans and connections with the Southern Pacific. Mr. Gee thinks there is a fine opportunity for business with this traffic and will work it for all it is worth.

Plenty of Congressional Candidates.

The congressional fight in the seventh district is waxing warm. Howard, the populist nominee, is not in good favor with some of the leaders of his party. Kolb declared against him immediately after his nomination, and now George F. Gaither, of Etowah county, one of the original populist party men in Alabama, has declared that he will stump the district against Howard for Bullock, the democratic nominee. It is understood that Howard has arranged to offset the defection of the Alabama leaders by securing Tom Watson's help, and the Georgian is booked to make several speeches in his behalf in the seventh during the coming two weeks.

Alabama Press Association.

Huntsville, Ala., October 14.—(Special.)—The twenty-sixth annual session of the Alabama Press Association was held in this city today. Officers were elected as follows: President, M. H. Camper, Florence Times; vice president, J. B. Simpson, Montgomery Journal; second vice president, Ira Champion, Troy Messenger; secretary, J. R. Rountree, Birmingham State Herald; treasurer, William Niles, Gadsden Times-News; orator, C. P. Lane, Huntsville Tribune; essayist, P. F. Miles, Union Springs Herald; poet, Miss Virginia Clay, Huntsville Democrat; historian, W. W. Screws, Montgomery Advertiser. At the evening session the addresses, essays and special features were given.

HERBERT TO MAKE SPEECHES.

Wires That He Will Play a Limited Engagement.

Montgomery, Ala., October 14.—(Special.) Secretary of the Navy Herbert has wired that he would make three speeches in this district during the week before the election. He would speak in the interests of the Palmer and Buckner movement. Secretary Herbert represented this district in congress several terms.

REPUBLICANS ARE RATTLED.

Do Not Know Who They Will Support for Congress.

Selma, Ala., October 14.—(Special.)—The withdrawal of H. A. Wilson, congressional nominee in this, the fourth district, from the race has left the republicans of the lower end of the district at sea. They had declared unequivocally against William F. Aldrich, republican, for congress, who, failing in renomination, is running as the candidate of the populists on a fusion platform. J. H. Crocheron, chairman of the Dallas county republican executive committee, has called a meeting of the committee in this city tomorrow. He said today that the committee would come out for Plowman, nominee of the democratic party, or for Dryer, gold standard nominee. The republicans of Dallas will follow the lead of the committee, and the other counties in the district will follow Dallas. The result of the meeting is looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

PUT A BULLET INTO EACH OTHER

Two Young Men of Montgomery Have a Shooting Match.

Montgomery, Ala., October 14.—(Special.) L. B. Williamson and Edgar Summercamp, two young men about town, quarreled here this morning about a debt of $2 and a pistol duel followed. Summercamp got a ball in the face and Williamson received one in his right thigh. Both were painfully but not fatally hurt.

SHOT TO KILL HIM.

PASSENGER WAS ASSAULTED BY A RAILWAY CONDUCTOR.

Claims the Assault Was Without Provocation and Brings Suit for Heavy Damages.

An alleged assault upon Lou Hallman by a conductor of the Atlanta Railway Company has caused the former to bring a suit for damages against the street car company for $10,000.

The suit was filed yesterday in the city court by Attorney W. H. Terrell, who represents the plaintiff.

"The conductor who was in charge of the car," says Hallman, "suddenly and without any provocation on my part made an assault upon me and began to strike me. He kicked me several times and then violently threw me out of the car to the ground upon the rough pavement.

"After I had been thrown from the car and while I was trying to escape from him the conductor continued to beat me. I tried to get out of his reach when he drew from his pocket a loaded pistol and fired three shots at me in rapid succession, one shot taking effect in my hand."

Hallman claims that the wound he received in his hand from the pistol shot has injured him permanently and has greatly decreased his capacity to earn a support. At the time he claims to have been assaulted, he says there were a number of passenger on the car who witnessed the rough treatment he received.

FOOTBALL TEAM IN A DEEP HOLE

Omnibus Upsets, Throwing the Boys in a Heap.

Montery, Cal., October 14.—While the members of the Pacific Grove football team were being conveyed from Salinas to this city in an omnibus last evening the vehicle struck a deep hole in the roadway and went over an embankment, carrying with it the occupants and four horses.

Frank Over was crushed beneath one of the horses and instantly killed. J. Rocket and E. Richardson were bruised and cut, and other members of the team were badly shaken up.

The horses were killed and the bus wrecked.

MORTUARY.

Jesse Pitts, Williamson, Ga.

W. H. Burbank, Athens, Ga.

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. H. Burbank, a prominent young man of this city, died, after a long illness with fever. Mr. Burbank was a brother of Mrs. Eugene W. Wade, of Atlanta.

Bogart, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—In this vicinity in the last few days four cows have had hydrophobia, and were killed to prevent the spread of the disease.

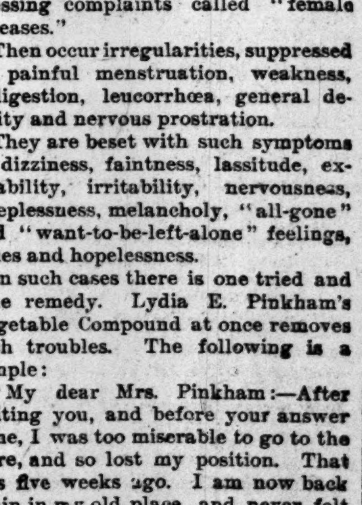

TIRED SALESWOMEN.

Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's organism is less strong than men's they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract these distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhœa, general debility and nervous prostration.

They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness.

"My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—After writing you, and before your answer came, I was too miserable to go to the store, and so lost my position. That was five weeks ago. I am now back again in my old place, and never felt so well in all my life. The bearing-down pains and whites have left me, and I am not a bit nervous or blue. Life looks brighter to me. I don't get tired, my temper is real sweet, and I could scream right out sometimes for joy Your Vegetable Compound is my standby. You don't know how thankful I am to you for saving me from suffering.

Every woman in my position should know of your wonderful remedy. I never saw you, but I love you for being so good to me."—EDITH——-W. 6th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Scrofula

Infests the blood of humanity. It appears in varied forms, but is forced to yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and vitalizes the blood and cures all such diseases. Read this:

"In September, 1894, I made a misstep and injured my ankle. Very soon afterwards,

A Sore

two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. I could not get any relief and had to stop work. I read of a cure of a similar case by Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My is now well and I have been greatly benefited otherwise. I have increased in weight and am in better health. I cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. BLAKE, So. Berwick, Me.

WILL BE PROSECUTED

Arrest of Crawford, Who Discharged His Bryan Clerks.

VIOLATED THE ELECTION LAWS

Warrant Sworn Out and the Bulldozer Taken in Charge.

AND GIVES BOND FOR HIS APPEARANCE

St. Louis Court Will Try Him for Attempting To Influence Employes' Rights as Americans.

St. Louis, October 14.—At noon today, on the application of Attorney Moland, on behalf of the state democratic committee, a warrant was issued for the arrest of D. C. Crawford, on a charge of violating the election law. Mr. Crawford is the proprietor of a large department store on Broadway and last Saturday discharged twelve of his clerks because they declared they would vote for Bryan.

Mr. Crawford was notified by telephone that a warrant was out for his arrest, and he arranged to surrender himself to Sheriff Trott at 3 o'clock. Mr. Crawford called at the sheriff's office at the hour agreed upon. Deputy Sheriff Hale served the warrant and Judge Murphy, of the court of criminal correction, who had gone to the sheriff's office in order that Mr. Crawford might not be put to unnecessary annoyance, accepted bond for Mr. Crawford's appearance in court.

The warrant charged Mr. Crawford with attempting to influence an elector in giving his vote and attempting to hinder and prevent a qualified voter from freely exercising the right of suffrage.

BLOW TO POPULISTS IN FOURTH.

Republicans Put Out a Candidate for Congress—Freeman Chosen.

West Point, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The latest entry in the congressional race is Mr. A. H. Freeman, of Greenville, selected by the republicans of the fourth district. The nomination is made merely to keep the republican organization in the district intact, and the republicans realize that their nominee doesn't stand the slightest chance of getting elected.

There were two elements in the convention. One consisted of those delegates who favored getting out a candidate and the other of those who objected to making any nomination at all. The populists were at work hoping to get the negro vote for Colonel Cary Thornton, as they did two years ago, and did everything in their power to prevent the republicans from getting out a man. The convention on its first ballot, by a vote of 23½ to 8½, decided to get out a candidate and nominated Mr. Freeman. Afterwards the vote was made unanimous. A committee was appointed to notify Mr. Freeman. Mr. Freeman will accept the nomination. He is a prominent attorney and planter of Meriwether county.

ANOTHER GINHOUSE DESTROYED

Rome, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The gin house of Captain A. B. Woolley, with contents, was totally destroyed by fire last night. Seventeen or eighteen bales of cotton were destroyed. A large portion of the cotton belonged to the tenants on the place. The building is said to have been partially insured, but the cotton is a total loss.

Telephone connection was made between Rome and Cedartown over the long distance line tonight.

William Wright, an aged negro from Coosa, arrived in the city this afternoon and identified the articles taken from the body of the dead man found in the Coosa Saturday afternoon as those of Bill Cothran, his step-son. From what he says it is evident that the negro was murdered and robbed of his money.

Tonight in some second floor sporting rooms on Broad street a pistol shot was fired. The police found a lamp burning on a table and a pile of poker chips, cards and some small change scattered around. The players had all fled. It is supposed to have been a gambling row.

FATHER OF FORTY-FIVE KIDS.

Robert Jesse Charged with Murdering His Wife—She Was the Sixth.

Americus, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Robert Jesse, the negro suspected of the murder of his wife, Fannie Jesse, in this county, Sunday night last, was caught today by Deputy Sheriff McArthur and City Marshal Feagin, at the house of the negro's daughter, in Houston county.

The officers followed the fugutive two days before effecting the arrest. Jesse is now in jail here. He denies the killing, but admits having trouble with his wife Sunday night, in which he says she attacked him with a knife. The evidence against Jesse is said to be very strong.

He is seventy-five years old, though very active for one of his years. He has had six wives and is the father of forty-five living children, besides a number who have died.

SHAW'S TRIAL POSTPONED.

MANY OF DEFENDANTS ABSENT WHEN CASE WAS CALLED.

Judge Orders Continuance Until December—Funeral of Dr. Baxter. Other Macon News.

Macon, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The trial of Tom Shaw, which was set for today in Twiggs county superior court before Judge Smith, has been postponed until December 1st next.

Inasmuch as only four of the defendant's witnesses were present out of thirty called, a motion was made for a continuance until tomorrow, but after investigating the situation and as the case could not be concluded this week if commenced tomorrow, Judge Smith ordered a continuance until December 1st.

Two on Trial.

This morning Adias Booker and his wife, Mariah Booker, were arraigned for preliminary trial before Justice Balkcom on the charge of being accessories to the murder of Lewis Carlow, a negro man who was shot to death in his yard last Saturday afternoon.

Justice Balcom dismissed Adias Booker and committed his wife to jail. It is suspected that her son, Prince Allen, by a former marriage, killed Carlow on account of some alleged slanders which it is said Carlow circulated. Prince Allen is at large.

Dr. Baxter's Funeral.

There was a large attendance of all classes of citizens today at noon on the funeral services of Dr. John S. Baxter, which were held from the former residence of the late Mrs. William B. Johnston. Among the mourners were the Macon Volunteers, of which command Dr. Baxter was surgeon during the war.

Court Matters.

Judge Felton came to Macon last evening to attend the funeral of Dr. John S. Baxter, hence there was no session of Houston superior court today. Judge Felton will return to Perry in the morning, however, and hold court the balance of the week.

PRINCETON DEFEATS INDIANS.

Carlisle School Students Outplayed at Every Point.

Princeton, N. J., October 14.—(Special.)—Princeton defeated the football team of the Carlisle Indian school here this afternoon by a score of 22 to 6. The Indians scored on a fluke in the first half, but were clearly outplayed in the greater part of the game.

The work of Rosengarten and Smith, of Princeton, was phenomenal. The Indians have a good strong team and there was some doubt as to Princeton's ability to cope with them.

The Princeton team so far has been very disappointing, but in today's game the members gave great satisfaction.

PLANT BUYS ANOTHER HOTEL.

Will Also Put on Steamers Between Punta Gordo and Punta Rassa.

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—President H. B. Plant, of the Plant system, passed through here today on his way north from Florida. He has just purchased the Tropical hotel, at Kissimmee, which will be remodelled and called the "Kissimmee," making another addition to the winter hotels in Florida.

Mr. Plant will also put on a line of steamers between Punta Gorda and Punta Rassa. Mr. Plant says that the storm-swept section of Florida is recovering very slowly, but he thinks everything will be gotten in shape for the winter season.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW.

Eleventh Annual Convention Meets at Pittsburg—Large Attendance.

Pittsburg, Pa., October 14.—The eleventh annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew opened in Pittsburg this morning with a quiet hour service at Trinity Episcopal church, Sixth avenue. The convention will continue until Sunday night.

Registration of delegates continued throughout the day. By tomorrow it is expected between 700 and 800 wearers of the red cross and white ribbon will be in attendance.

Judge Maddox on the Run.

Rome, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Judge Maddox started out to make a thorough canvass of Polk county this morning. He has been nearly all over the seventh district and has made one of the strongest campaigns in the history of the district.

The democrats realize how Judge Maddox has been hampered heretofore by the contest made by his opponent last term and they are determined to make the majority so large that there will be no danger of a repetition of the annoyance.

MINERS HEAR HIM

Bryan Speaks in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin.

HIS WORDS MEET EAGER EARS

MAKES A CIRCUITOUS, THREE STATE TRIP

Watersmeet, Mich., October 14.—Candidate Bryan's special train traveled from Duluth through Minnesota and Wisconsin all night, and after lying for three hours this morning on a siding near Saxon, resumed at 8 o'clock.

When the train reached Ironwood at 8:45 o'clock the candidate opened up his four days of Michigan campaigning. People from the surrounding country had driven in to join the Ironwood folks in welcoming the head of the Chicago ticket and the congregation in the square where Mr. Bryan spoke numbered at least 2,500.

A fifteen-minute speech was made by the candidate from a temporary stand, and then the train moved to Bessemer where it arrived at 9:15. A crowd of about the same proportions as that at Ironwood was gathered about the platform from which Mr. Bryan spoke.

The train took a little side jump from Michigan into Wisconsin, and it was in Florence, in the latter state, that the comments of the candidate were called forth. He had not finished his little talk about the silver question when somebody called for three cheers for McKinley. They were given with great vigor, and then a laugh went up from the crowd. "I have no objection," said Mr. Bryan, "to a man cheering for McKinley, but I only wish that a man who thinks that this country is not big enough to attend to its own business would put it on his hat, so people would know who he was. We have no right to complain if a man thinks more of foreign nations than he does of America, but he ought not to be ashamed to say so."

At 2:30 the Bryan special reached Norway, another mining town. In a short speech from the rear platform of the train Mr. Bryan made reference to those who have tried to destroy labor organizations similar to that made at Iron Mountain. The people of Powers, 400 of them, heard the candidate deliver a brief speech.

In Hanna's Territory.

Marquette, Mich., October 14.—The throng that had assembled at Escanaba, another of Mr. Hanna's shipping ports, was so large that the Bryan special was held there twenty-five minutes in order to give the democratic candidate time to make an address, the scheduled stop being for a quarter of an hour. Fully 5,000 people were gathered in an open field near the railway station when the train arrived at 4:15 o'clock.

At Ishpeming, where his train arrived at 6:30 o'clock, Mr. Bryan addressed 3,000 people from the porch of a hotel. He was followed by ex-Congressman Tarsney and Mayor Andrews and the speaking was just over when a procession of McKinley and Hobart clubs marched past the hotel, the band playing loudly and the followers cheering for their candidates. No clash occurred.

Another large audience, numbering probably 3,000, was at Negaunee and the democratic national nominee was heartily received. He made a short address and at 8 o'clock the train pulled out for Marquette, where it arrived at 8:50 o'clock.

Mr. Bryan spoke at Marquette for an hour tonight to an audience of about 6,000 people assembled in front of the railway depot.

FORT VALLEY HAS BRYAN CLUB

Will Try and Poll Every Democratic Vote in Houston County.

Fort Valley, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—A Bryan and Sewall club was formed here last night with a membership of nearly 100, and the membership will increase daily. The officers as selected were: President, O. M. Houser; first vice president, M. Glass; second vice president, H. E. Murray; third vice president, J. C. Conner.

BIG TROPHY SHOOT TODAY.

THE CONTEST PROMISES TO BE A WARM ONE.

Teams from Nearly All of the Companies Will Be Present To Shoot for the Prize.

Today is the day for the big shoot for the Atlanta trophy. Teams from nearly all of the local companies will be on the range to contest for the prize, and each team hopes to land the prize.

The shooting will start promptly at 9 o'clock, the teams leaving on the 8.30 car, and all day the range will resound with the crack of the rifle. The battle promises to be a hotly contested one. All of the teams that have entered are about evenly matched, or were the last time that they had a chance to display their skill, and there is no telling just how the contest will terminate.

All of the men have been hard at work practicing for the event. Dinner will be eaten on the range, a short time being given for that important event. All of the range officers will be on the range to supervise the shoot and to make out the scores.

This is the first of the annual shoots for the Atlanta trophy, and the company who wins it will keep the prize for one year. Some time during the fall of each year the trophy will be shot for, and those who have had the contest in charge have done well to have a shoot this year. They have only had about two months to arrange for the contest and have had their hands full all of the time.

SCHOONER HOWE IN A STORM.

Vessel Badly Damaged and a Man Washed Overboard.

Brunswick, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Williams, master of the American schooner Frank Howe, arrived today from Boston. He reports a northeast gale when off Hatteras. Seaman Charles Cummings was at the wheel and was washed overboard. A strong sea running, and a heavy wind blowing at the time, prevented his being saved. The Howe's cabin was damaged, doors washed in, staylights wrecked and boats injured.

BIG HAUL BY REVENUE OFFICERS

Five Large Distilleries and Thousands of Gallons of Beer Destroyed.

Loganville, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—A successful raid was made last night near Windsor, about five or six miles from Loganville, by Deputy Collectors Rembert and McCornett. The officers cut down five large distilleries and destroyed between fifty and seventy-five thousand gallons of beer, besides a large quantity of singlings and corn.

It is not frequent that such large captures are made. Deputy Collector McCornett says he thinks that this raid breaks the record. No men were captured at either of the places.

GETS A CALL TO THE FIFTH.

ALEX W. BEALER IS OFFERED A PASTORATE.

Fifth Baptist Congregation Unanimously Called Him Last Night. He May Accept.

At a large meeting of the Fifth Baptist church held last evening Alexander Winkler Bealer, the young journalist and lecturer, was unanimously called to the pastorate of that church.

Since the resignation of the former pastor, Rev. C. N. Donaldson, which occurred about four months ago, the church has been without a leader. A committee of twenty-five was appointed as soon as the resignation of Dr. Donaldson was accepted to select a suitable pastor for the church.

The committee met frequently and labored faithfully in order that they might

ALEX W. BEALER.
Called to Fifth Baptist Church Last Night. Goes from Journalism to the Ministry.

reach the end for which they were appointed.

When Mr. Bealer announced about a week and a half ago that he would enter the ministry, the committee saw at once that he was the man for whom they had been searching. He was well known to the congregation. They called a meeting last Sunday evening, and after carefully considering the matter, decided that they could not do better than recommend to the church that Mr. Bealer be called to the pastorate. This they did last night, and the congregation accepted the report.

Mr. Bealer is at present in New York, and it is not known whether or not he will accept the call. He will return next Friday or Saturday, and as soon as he reaches the city the following committee will wait upon him and formally notify him of the action of the church, and ask him to accept: Messrs. Andrews, McHan, Allen, Brown and Hairston.

Alex W. Bealer is the son of the late Rev. George B. Bealer, who was probably the most prominent minister of his time in South Carolina. He was for fifteen years pastor of the Baptist church in Darlington, and only resigned when his health became too feeble for his labors. He is also a nephew of the late Edward T. Winkler, a prominent minister of Marion, Ala. Mr. Bealer was born in 1860 at Darlington, S. C., where he lived with his parents until the death of his father, which occurred in 1870. Then his mother moved to Atlanta, bringing with her her family.

He is a graduate of the Boys' High school. After his schooling had been finished he entered commercial life, and was for a long time bookkeeper for Andrew J. Miller & Co., the furniture men. He did his first work in journalism about ten years ago on The Evening Capitol, with which paper he stayed until its failure.

About five years ago he married one of the belles of Forsyth, Ga., Miss Fanny Rudisill, who is a daughter of Dr. Franklin Rudisill, of that place. Mr. Bealer has always been an earnest worker in the church. A Baptist by birth and rearing, he has never for an instant relaxed in his religious convictions, although he has at all times been extremely liberal in all of his views.

For some time he has been thinking of entering the ministry, but not until of late did he decide to take the step. He publicly announced his decision only about a week and a half ago.

HE IS NOT A CANDIDATE.

W. C. Glenn Announces That He Will Not Enter the Supreme Court Race.

The announcement of Hon. W. C. Glenn, of Atlanta, that he will not be a candidate for the supreme court bench was a surprise to the people of Atlanta and to the visiting politicians last evening. While Colonel Glenn had not announced his candidacy for the office, it was known that there was a very strong movement on the part of his friends urging him to become one, and that he had every inducement to do so. His friends believe that a majority of the members of the Fulton county bar would have undoubtedly indorsed him for this high office had he gone into the race, and he had unquestionably received some very valuable offers of support from different parts of the state. Colonel Glenn, after giving the matter full consideration, however, announced his decision, which was that he would not be in the race.

"I have been gratified," said he, "at the large number of letters and telegrams I have received from influential Georgians asking me to make the race and have had very flattering tenders of support. But after weighing the matter in all of its lights I came to the conclusion that it was due both to my family and my partner that I continue in the practice of the law. Of course the supreme court judgeship is a very high honor, and if it were simply a question of the rich honor I should not hesitate to make an active canvass for the place, but as it is, and for the reason which I have outlined in a general way, I have come to the determination that I will under no circumstance make the race."

It seems probable that Atlanta will have no candidate at all. Neither Judge Marshall Clarke nor Judge W. R. Hammond will enter the contest. There were no additions to the list yesterday, but friends of the various gentlemen who have already been mentioned in this connection have begun work in their behalf.

THEY WILL FIGHT BRANTLEY.

Republicans in the Eleventh District Ordered To Support the Populist.

The story comes from Brunswick to the effect that the republicans of the eleventh district have received instructions from the republican boss that it is their duty in the present campaign to support Ben Milliken, the populist nominee for congress, against W. G. Brantley, the democratic nominee.

Whether direct orders have been received or not it is a fact that there is sudden activity in the registration of negro voters. It is understood that Colonel Buck has been very active in this respect in all the cities of Georgia particularly, and that the republican campaign fund has been paying back taxes of those who were behind in this respect. This seems to be particularly the case in the eleventh district, where there is a large colored vote, and the intention of the republican bosses is clearly to give Colonel Brantley trouble if they can. It is stated that they expect assistance from some of the gold standard men in the district, but this can hardly be true, for Mr. Brantley has the support of all elements of democracy and will certainly win.

WANTED TO REGISTER

Flashily Dressed Negro Insists on Stopping at the Kimball.

CLERK SAID NO AND FIRED HIM

SLEPT IN A CELL INSTEAD OF A ROOM

Says His Name Is Albert Wells, of the Washington Police Force. He Is a Swell.

A flashily dressed negro, carrying a stylish umbrella and wearing an air of assumed importance, walked into the Kimball house rotunda last night after the manner of the most foppish individual imaginable. He stepped up to the counter and, taking up a pen, started to write his name on the register.

When stopped by two of the clerks and asked what he meant, the stylish negro replied that he desired a room for the night and wanted his baggage sent up at once.

"You can't stop here," said Mr. Tobe Powell, the cashier at the Kimball.

The flashy negro looked up in amazement, but without replying he again picked up a pen, which had been taken from him in the meantime. When he endeavored to write his name on the register the second tiem Captain Russell, the Kimball house special officer, took a hand in the case and he quickly ushered the darkey out of the hotel, through the Pryor street door.

The negro carried a valise and a bundle, and all were handed out to him. He was told to move on down the street, but instead of doing so he quickly turned back into the hotel through another door and advanced towards the desk. Before he could be stopped he got about half way to the desk and was about to sit down in one of the rotunda chairs, when Captain Russell again grabbed him by the collar and this time rudely shoved the dude darky out on the sidewalk.

The negro made some resistence and a crowd quickly gathered, but the trouble was of short duration. The negro was turned over to Officer E. M. Berry and sent to the police station in a patrol wagon. He was sullen and obstinate and he declined to give his name at the station house keeper's desk. He said that he is a detective and spotter, and asserted that his arrest was an outrage. He said that he intended to have the Kimball clerks arrested when he was taken in charge himself.

The darkey was assigned to a cell, and an hour later he felt better and said that his name is Alex Wells, and that he hails from Washington, D. C. He claims to be in the service of the chief of police of the Washington department and says that he is on his way to Columbus.

The Kimball clerks say that the negro was insolent in his manner and that he persisted in being allowed to register and be given accommodations. He was informed that the Kimball is open only to white people, but the information did not appear to satisfy the detective-spotter of color, and he had to be ejected to prevent a scene in the lobby.

The negro is of ginger cake color and he is dressed in the height of fashion. He wears a tall, white collar, a fine silk necktie, immaculate shirt front, the latest tailor-made coat and creased trousers. His shoes are of the toothpick variety and oiled to the last extremity. The darkey wears a new stylish derby hat set well back on his head, and an aristocratic look on his face. He might be easily taken for a leader of the ultra swell set in the swellest circles of colored swell society.

"He is a dandy, but he didn't register at the Kimball house," said Captain Russell after the incident.

The negro was locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct and he will have to explain to Judge Andy Calhoun in the police court today why he insists on race equality in this section to the extent that the public peace is disturbed.

OSBORN WASN'T HYPNOTIZED.

Lee's Manager Says the Young Man Was Not a Subject.

Mr. Thomas F. Adkins, the manager of Lee, the hypnotist, writes to The Constitution to correct the impression that Ben Osborn, the slayer of Theo Schrader, was hypnotized during the recent engagement of the hypnotist at the Lyceum. It was suggested that Osborn's condition might be the result of his being hypnotized and not having been entirely removed from the hypnotic trance. Mr. Adkins writes:

"Editor Constitution: I beg to call the attention of the readers of your valuable paper to a report sent out from Atlanta that Mr. Lee, the hypnotist, had hypnotized a Mr. Ben Osborn, and that he had lost his mind, etc., and also that Mr. Lee had made him believe that he was a dog (not a monkey this time nor the hat the monkey tore.) We keep a list of all the people that we hypnotize and the name of Osborn does not appear thereon. People often go crazy over religion, and for that reason, I suppose, the Bible ought to be obliterated. I see where a negro was lynched in a town in Georgia yesterday. I look with anxious eyes for a report today that Mr. Lee had inflamed the mob to that effect. Anyone with even a meager knowledge of hypnotism will tell you that hypnotic sleep is as free from harm as is natural sleep. It is only the ignorant class of people that have the idea that hypnotism is injurious. In eleven years' practical experience I have never seen any one injured mentally or physically from being placed under hypnosis. The report has done Mr. Lee a great injustice, and I sincerely hope you will give this space in your excellent paper. Respectfully yours, THOMAS F. ADKINS,
"Manager of 'The Lees.'"

IN PLACE OF THE STRIKERS.

EIGHT OUT-OF-TOWN STONE CUTTERS AT WORK.

Others Are Expected Tomorrow—Contractors Say They Have the Fight Whipped.

The stonecutters' strike is still on, but eight men from Lithonia and Conyers were engaged yesterday by the Ramsay-Brisben Stone Company, and began work on the Austell building about 1 o'clock.

There still remain ten vacancies, but the contractors said yesterday that seven or eight additional men would come to Atlanta tomorrow to work for them, after which they expect to proceed as smoothly as before the strike.

The new men who came up from Lithonia and Conyers are not members of the Stonecutters' National Union.

The strikers say they do not feel discouraged, because they consider the new men unskilled in the class of work that is required on the Austell building. They say that the new men are accustomed to a rough class of work, such as cutting out belgian blocks, etc., but are not expert in cutting stone for building purposes.

The strikers held another meeting in Federation hall, No. 62½ Peachtree street, yesterday. A delegate from the Atlanta Federation of Trades appeared before them and reported that the president of the association, Michael Riley, had appointed a committee consisting of the president, Pat Moore and W. E. Ormond, for the purpose of making a careful investigation of the strike to see what action should be taken under the circumstances. At yesterday's meeting it was decided to send two men to Lithonia and three to Stone Mountain to prevent stonecutters from coming to Atlanta to help out the contractors on the Austell building. These men left on an afternoon train, and another was sent over to Athens for the same purpose last night. Strike headquarters were established yesterday in Federation hall, and Secretary J. W. Fridwell was placed in charge. He said last night that a letter had been received by John Estes from a firm of stone contractors in Tuscumbia, Ala., stating that the firm had a good deal of work there for union stonecutters.

Messrs. Ramsay & Brisben were seen yesterday by a representative of The Constitution in reference to the strike. Mr. Brisben said:

"We expect very soon to have all the positions filled, so that the work can run on as smoothly as before the trouble commenced. Eight men reported today, and seven or eight are expected tomorrow from the same localities down the Georgia railroad. The strikers came to them and offered to pay their way back to Conyers and Lithonia if they would return, but they refused, saying that they had to care for their families this winter, and could not afford to accept their proposition. We are paying them what we paid the strikers, from $2 to $3. This is what we paid before, and it is all we will pay."

OBJECTS TO THE SALE.

Julius Brown and the Executors of the Brown Estate File Their Protest.

A bill was field in the superior court yesterday by Mr. Julius L. Brown and the executors of the Brown estate against Mr. Clifford L. Anderson, Rufus T. Dorsey and Franklyn Weld, a committee representing certain persons interested in the bonds of the Georgia Mining, Manufacturing and Investment Company.

Judge Lumpkin granted an order setting the case for a hearing before him next week in chambers, at which time the defendants will be required to show cause why the petition of Mr. Brown should not be granted.

In the bill it is charged that the members of this committee have entered into a movement by which they hoped to secure the sale of certain stocks for their own benefit. It is also claimed that the Brown estate has been damaged by the sale, as the stocks were said to have been bidden in by the committee at a small price.

Mr. Clifford Anderson, who is chairman of this special committee, stated yesterday afternoon that the filing of the bill carried with it no significance and would be defeated in the courts at the time the case was heard.

Mr. Brown claims that the sale of stock should not have occurred at the time they were sold, as they failed to bring their value. The sale referred to occurred in New York last month, and the stocks were based upon certain interests in the various companies which have figured in the Georgia Mining, Manufacturing and Investment Company litigation.

COBB'S FAIR AT ITS HEIGHT.

Is One of the Best Ever Held in That County—Racing Today.

The fair at Marietta, which opened last Tuesday, gives promise of being one of the most successful ever held in Cobb county. The buildings are crowded with excellent exhibits of all sorts and the people are taking a deep interest in it.

Persons from all over the county are visiting the fair and a large crowd is present every day. The exhibits are shown in a most interesting manner and all are arranged in a way that reflects great credit on those who got them up.

The fair grounds are in splendid shape. These fairs are held in Cobb county every year and the people always take great interest in them.

Today will be one of special interest at the fair grounds since the speed of several fine trotters is to be tried. The race will be a free-for-all race and several fine horses have entered. Among the entries are Anderson's Murette and Stile's Arch. Both of these animals have made fine records and there is much interest in the outcome of the race.

NEGRO BURGLAR PLEADS GUILTY

His Bond Was Fixed at $500 Which He Could Not Make.

Ed Simpson, a negro man, pleaded guilty to the charge of burglary in Justice Bloodworth's court yesterday. The negro had been badly wanted for some time by the police, and they regard the capture as a good one. The arrest was made by Officer Jim Shepard, and he displayed a good deal of skill in working up the case. Simpson's bond was placed at $500, which he failed to make.

LOYD PLAYED TWO ROLES.

LEADER OF BURGLARS WHILE ACTING AS DETECTIVE.

Authorities Think the Capture of the Gang the Biggest Catch Made in a Long While.

Will Loyd, Tom Anderson and Will Davis, the young white men who were caught in Mrs. Jones's residence, at the corner of Courtland and Linden streets, Tuesday morning, appear to be the biggest catch the authorities have made for some time.

These are the first professional burglars that have been caught in this city in many months. Innumerable negroes are apprehended for entering houses, but all were more or less inexperienced. These white men have been in the business for years. They are typical professional burglars, who have been operating not only in Atlanta, but in other Georgia cities for months.

Loyd, the man who was employed by the city detectives for three months to apprehend criminals, and only pointed out those whom he did not like, is the leader. He is said to have several negroes and white men under his sway, who are perhaps the most daring criminals this city has ever known.

This young man, who has fallen at the very threshhold of his manhood, has a history. He was raised in Atlanta, and has been in the chaingang innumerable times for various offenses. His work has been so shrewd, however, that the officers have never been able to fasten any very damaging offense on him until now, and the longest he has served in the gang was twelve months.

His crowd has committed numerous burglaries and thefts all over the city. Their boldness is evidenced by their entering Mrs. Jones's residence in broad daylight, and remaining an hour and a half Tuesday morning. Anderson is just about as notorious as his partner. He has also served eighteen months in the chaingang for burglary. He entered a residence on Luckie street some time ago and stole several articles of value. Davis is wanted for burglarizing a house on Mills street about two weeks ago.

This gang has also operated extensively in Birmingham, Montgomery and Rome. The detectives now have a valuable shirt stud and scarf pin, which Loyd is accused of stealing in the latter city several months ago.

Were Bound Over Yesterday.

The famous trio was taken before Judge Foute yesterday afternoon for trial. No evidence was introduced for the prisoners pleaded guilty, and were bound over to the superior court under heavy bonds. They were not sent to the jail as is the custom, but were returned to their cells in the station house. The officers are not through with them yet, and will prosecute them on more than one case.

About two weeks ago several freight cars were broken open near Thompson street crossing, and a lot of goods stolen. Circumstances point in the direction of Loyd and his gang as being the guilty parties, and they will be tried again today on the charge of car breaking before Judge Foute. They state they are innocent of the actual theft, claiming they got the goods from under the car after someone else had stolen them.

Loyds "Jekyl and Hyde" Act.

When Loyd was employed by the detectives three months ago to aid them in apprehending criminals he played two distinct roles to perfection. He did good work with the officers, and aided in some good catches, but he took good care never to betray any of his own crowd. It seems that while he was doing criminal work for the city he was doing the same kind of job, but of a different nature, on his own hook.

LARGE CAMP FIRE AT NASHVILLE

Annual Gathering of Tennessee Confederate Veterans.

Nashville, Tenn., October 14.—The Tennessee Association of Confederate Veterans is now in annual session here. About 500 veterans are already in the city and by morning nearly a thousand more are expected to report at headquarters.

Tonight there was an elaborate concert at the tabernacle, which 5,000 people enjoyed. Tomorrow there will be a street parade of confederates, led by the uniformed veterans, both infantry and cavalry.

The following officers were elected by the Tennessee veterans: General Charles W. Anderson, president; Dr. J. B. Cowen, first vice president; Major George A. Howard, second vice president; John P. Hickman, secretary and treasurer; Elder R. Lin Cave, chaplain; Loyd Cecil, sergeant at arms.

ATLANTA, GA., October 15, 1896.

Sound Advice.

The address to the members of the people's party, issued by the national committee of that party, and published in full in The Constitution of yesterday, will unquestionably do much toward clarifying the political atmosphere in some of the states which are acknowledged to be doubtful.

The national committee of the people's party points out to the members of that party the importance of the union of all the silver forces in the support of Mr. Bryan, and urges that fusion be perfected wherever it is necessary.

The address is a strong, practical statement of the conditions as they exist. It points out clearly the importance of united action of all silver forces, and urges the populists of all the states to let there be no stumbling block in the way of such union as will insure the success of the silver cause.

The members of the populist national committee, in explaining their action, state that they take it with no view whatever of hurting the feelings of or running directly counter to the wishes of the gentleman who has been nominated by their party for the office of vice president, and who is well-known to be inclined to oppose fusion. They show that with them, as with the people in this great fight, principles are everything and that the personal ambition of men must, of necessity, sometimes give way when principles are involved.

It is a patriotic address and will bear fruit. That the advice of the party's leaders will be followed there is no doubt. Whatever the personal ambitions of men, whatever the efforts of the enemy to foster disruption in the silver ranks—whether this disruption is evidenced through the action of the populist politicians or democratic politicians—all of this must be swept aside, and will be swept aside, and a united front will be presented by the people against the trusts, the greedy combinations, and the ravenous gold standard which Mr. Hanna and his candidate represent.

The Archbishop of Canterbury.

The late archbishop of Canterbury was the second primate of England to die within the walls of a sanctuary.

The manner of his death, however, was less tragic than that of the renowned Thomas a-Becket, who was brutally stabbed by a party of knights while kneeling in front of the altar of St. Benedict. The offense for which Becket thus paid the death penalty was that of using the power of his office to exalt the church above the crown. It was to prevent such a religious supremacy that Becket was exalted to the rank of archbishop by Henry II, who was then monarch of England. Instead of finding the primate a submissive tool, however, who was ready to serve him in the execution of his royal purpose, he found him a zealous servant of the church who refused to bend in servile allegiance to the crown. In a moment of irritation he expressed the wish that someone might rid him of the offensive archbishop. Overhearing the king's soliloquy four of his faithful knights laid in wait for the primate and slew him just in front of the holy shrine. No sooner had the news of the foul murder reached the ear of the king than he repented of his hasty speech and resorted to measures of humble atonement. As a further evidence of his contrition he yearly resorted to the holy land, besides performing other deeds of penance.

Unlike the tragic end of Thomas a-Becket, the late archbishop of Canterbury died peacefully in the cathedral at Hawarden. Having reached the mellow age of sixty-seven years his passing away was like the falling of a withered leaf in the golden maturity of autumn. It was just such a death as many a goodly man has craved. But aside from dying in the church, it was a beautiful coincidence that the old primate should have spent his last hours in the home of Mr. Gladstone, who, twenty years before that time, had made him archbishop of the church of England.

Though less distinguished in the measure of intellectual endowment than some of his reverend predecessors in office, the late archbishop of Canterbury was, nevertheless, a man of unusual gifts and profound piety. Since the holy office was first occupied by St. Augustine, several hundred years ago, ninety-three archbishops have succeeded to the title; among them such distinguished prelates as Dunstan, Lanfranc, Anselm, Laud, Warham, Cranmer and others whose names are associated with heroic martyrdom.

The last sad rites having been performed over the late archbishop, the religious world has commenced to speculate on the probabilities of the succession. On account of the high responsibility which the office imposes upon the occupant it is necessary that the most discriminating judgment should be employed in the selection of a successor to the late archbishop. England has many able divines in the service of the established church from whom to make a choice, and that she will solve the difficult problem with which she is now confronted is universally recognized.

A Convert to Bimetallism.

Several weeks ago a special commission was delegated by the Trade and Labor Assembly of Chicago to visit Mexico for the purpose of making a study of the money question as presented in the experience of our sister republic.

The commission was composed of Messrs. P. J. Maas and Patrick Enright, both men of strong sense and keen faculties of observation. As a result of the visit to Mexico one of these commissioners, Mr. P. J. Maas, has returned home a zealous advocate of free coinage, and intends to mount the stump in defense of that principle.

Says the commissioner in speaking of his Mexican observations:

> When I started for Mexico I was apathetic on the money question. I had not made up my mind as to what would be the best policy for the United States. My trip has removed every doubt held by me and I am now an ardent free silverite. If the United States would adopt free silver it would injure the trade of England and other European gold countries. Talk about protection to American workingmen! There never was a better plan advanced than the free coinage of silver. It would encourage home manufacturers, as their product would be purchased by the people of the United States in preference to those of England or other countries.
> The United States and Mexico are not to be compared from a labor standpoint. The natives of Mexico are a lazy, shiftless lot, but if they had the energy of the workingmen of this country their chances for bettering their condition would be increased a thousand fold by the fact that Mexico is a free silver country.

Such testimony as the foregoing from a man who was wholly unbiased on the money question at the time of his visit to Mexico is worth thousands of votes to the democratic ticket in the approaching election.

If, in addition to free coinage, Mexico was blessed with such a climate as this country enjoys, it would be one of the most prosperous nations on the globe.

The "Tight Money Democrats."

The "tight money democrats" seem to be getting on as well as could have been expected. The banks, the trusts and the plutocrats generally are very sympathetic. It is true that the banks, the trusts and the plutocrats are for Hanna and Hanna's now celebrated candidate, but that does not prevent them from leaning sympathetically on the shoulders of the "tight money democrats," and shedding a few sympathetic tears over the decoy duck candidates. The "tight money democrats" are doing as well as they could be expected to do. They are not taking any votes away from the democrats, for no honest democrats can afford to vote for tight money and hard times. If the "tight money democrats" are doing any damage at all it is to the Hanna gang. If they are doing no damage to that gang it is because the Hanna crowd have too much self-respect to even seem to countenance the traitorous attitude of the "tight money" crowd. Hanna is supposed to have a party, and he must hold it together. He cannot hold it together if the fact should be made known that he has bought the "tight money" crowd, and that he is paying their campaign expenses.

That alleged leader, Bynum, gave the whole snap away when he went to the Hanna headquarters and spouted forth the facts in regard to the campaign in the west. He declared that if the "tight money" crowd which had put up the bluff of Palmer and Buckner didn't get a good slice of the Hanna fund, the gold standard goose was a cooked bird.

That Bynum got the money he demanded there can be no doubt, for he is a persistent fellow, and if Hanna had turned him down we should have heard of him demanding money from the democrats. The fact that he is now quiet shows that Hanna was prompt to accede to his demands, and it shows, furthermore, that Hanna looks upon the campaign of the "tight money" crowd as a definite part of the republican campaign, and that when such professional "bleeders" as Bynum come forward, their demands are to be satisfied.

In short, there seems to be a complete fusion and understanding between the "tight money" party and the republicans, and we wonder that it has not cropped out in Georgia. But there is not a hint of it thus far. In fact, the only "fusion" we hear of is that which is reported to be patched up between the populists, who are pledged to Bryan, and the republicans, who are pledged to Hanna's man. This would be a remarkable "fusion" if it could be carried out, but what is lacking is the voting element. The populist voters will not be sold out. As to the "tight money" crowd, it never had any voters and never claimed any.

Those Unholy Alliances.

The populist national committee has issued an address to the voters of their party which must prove a stumbling block to those populists who, while declaring that fusion with democrats is undesirable, are yet willing to fuse with the republicans. Some such scheme of fusion has been on foot in Georgia, and is even now being considered by the weak-minded who believe that office is more important than principle.

It is as certain as anything can be that the populist organization, if it is to be preserved at all, can only be maintained on the lines set forth and explained by the populist national committee.

This committee pays a passing compliment to those democrats who have been opposing fusion, and it asserts that these men are drawing money from the Hanna campaign fund. How true this may be we do not know, but we do know that every honest voter, whether he be populist, republican or democrat, is personally interested in the election of Bryan, whether this election be accomplished by means of fusion or by means of a straight vote for the democratic candidate. That is the thing to be accomplished. That is the thing for which all good men are striving. The attempt of certain ambitious populists to fuse with the republicans in Georgia and other states where they imagine that such fusion will be to advance their personal fortunes is sure to be a failure. They cannot poll a single honest populist vote in favor of Hanna's candidate. They cannot poll a single honest populist vote against Bryan and the free coinage of silver.

At this time it is certain that Bryan will be the next president unless he is defeated by the opposition of populists who regard their party organization as of more importance than the principles that the populist party stands for. These principles are precisely the same as those the democratic party stands for, as was shown by the unanimity with which the populist national convention indorsed the nominee of the democratic convention for president. This indorsement was in the nature of a declaration to the effect that no fusion was necessary to secure the votes of the populists for the democratic candidate for president. They not only indorsed him, but they made him their nominee and pledged themselves to his support.

And yet, on top of that, we are informed that the populists, who are pledged to support Bryan, not because he is the democratic nominee, but because he stands for principles that are dear to the people of the country without regard to the party, and because he was unanimously nominated by their convention, have, in certain districts, entered into a fusion with republican candidates for congress. And we are told that these populists who are so opposed to fusion with democrats and so keen for it with republicans, intend to dishonor their party and their party's pledges by supporting men for congress who stand for every principle that the populist party has declared so detestable.

Some such scheme as this is undoubtedly on foot, but it is certain to fail. Why? Because the men who are dishonoring the principles of their party and trying to sell out the populist voters cannot "deliver the goods," as they say in trade. The populists of Georgia did not desert the democratic party to become republicans or assistant republicans. Can it be said, then, that at this time, when the honesty and the patriotism of every man is to be measured by the vote he casts, the populist voters of Georgia, or other southern states, are going to support republican candidates for office? We do not believe it. Such alliances would be unholy; and no matter what the politicians may say, the people will not indorse them.

"The Silver Trust."

The argument of the advocates of the single gold standard in this campaign is chiefly made up of ridicule and prevarication.

Such weapons, however, are beneath the dignity of intellectual combat, and they betray a weakness in the cause of the single gold standard which cannot be hidden from the eyes of the public.

One of the many fabrications which the money power has arrayed in the sober livery of truth and sent out to do missionary work for the gold standard is the one which proclaims the existence of a silver trust in this country, and fixes thereupon the responsibility for the present free coinage agitation.

Within the last few days quite a long list of mine-owners has been devised which purports to give the names of those belonging to this imaginary syndicate. In the zeal which the author has displayed in getting up this list he has had no respect for accuracy, and several ridiculous errors are detected, which clearly betray its partisan manufacture. It includes among the members of this alleged silver trust several mine owners whose property is restricted exclusively to gold and others who are interested only in copper mines.

It was even charged that the brilliant young editor of The New York Journal was a member of this trust, and that his reason for espousing the cause of free coinage with so much enthusiasm was explained by the fact that his income was chiefly derived from silver mines. In reply to this malicious charge it was shown that Mr. Hearst was more extensively interested in the yellow than in the white metal, and that so far as his own selfish interests were concerned he had nine reasons for upholding the single gold standard to only one for supporting the principle of free coinage. It was patriotism, therefore, and not selfishness which inspired Mr. Hearst in dedicating the columns of his two great papers, The New York Journal and The San Francisco Examiner, to the cause of bimetallism.

Speaking of the alleged silver trust, The Anaconda Standard makes the following observation:

> Some idea of this absurd trust list can be gathered by taking account of its local application. It names Thomas Cruse, who made money out of a gold mine, as a silver baron worth millions. It assesses the "Butte Silver Smelting Works" at $14,000,000! It rates the Broadwater estate, which never had silver interests, at $5,000,000; an estate which would, we suppose, be delighted to find itself worth $175,000. It marks $20,000,000 for S. T. Hauser, who probably would be happy if he could find himself worth $100,000 free and clear. It places R. C. Chambers at $20,000,000; how contented he might be with one-twentieth of it. It places a valuation of $20,000,000 on Lee Mantle, who, we are inclined to believe, would be worth $75,000 today had he kept out of politics.

So utterly ridiculous is the charge of the money power with respect to this imaginary trust that serious discussion is hardly necessary to expose the rank falsehood which it contains. Such methods of overcoming the strength of free coinage will not only fail to accomplish the end which the advocates of the single gold standard have in view, but are almost certain to react with double vigor against the cause in which such weapons are employed.

Those who want to vote for "tight money" and hard times should not hesitate to support the Hanna crowd. Fusion is not necessary. If a voter wants to vote for hard times he doesn't have to go through the formality of fusing. All he has to do is to vote for Hanna and the British gold standard.

"Editor Dana says that the "tight money" crowd has the game in its hands.

The "tight money democrats" seem to be having a hard time, all except Bynum, who has hit the Hanna barrel, and hit it hard.

Sound "money" means tight money, and that's the reason the money lenders are on that side.

Hanna says "the job must be complete." And it will be. We think it will be the completest job the country has ever seen.

If the people want "tight money" let them vote for the Hanna gang.

It is said that Tammany hissed Cleveland's name. Evidently Brer Pulitzer wasn't present.

It is victory enough for "the southern gang" to know that C. A. Dana and Cleveland stand on the same platform.

Senator Hill's hole seems to be altogether deep enough for him.

The boys are now making Hanna blush by telling him that he ought to have been a Hannibal or a Caesar or a Wellington. We commend to Davenport the idea of Hanna as Caesar. Think of the jowl of him.

CAMPAIGN ECHOES.

The Monroe Advertiser pays this tribute to Hon. John T. Boifeuillet:

"Hon. John T. Boifeuillet, of Bibb, stands a most excellent chance of being the speaker of the next house. Hon. John T. Boifeuillet is recognized as one of the ablest and most influential members of the house, and as a presiding officer he would find few equals and no superiors."

The Monroe Advertiser says editorially:

"The magnificent work done by Hon. Steve Clay, as chairman of the democratic executive committee, deserves the highest commendation. Mr. Clay was untiring in his efforts to snow the populists under by 40,000, and he had the pleasure of seeing it beautifully done."

The Albany Herald says that the democrats of the second district will not treat Candidate Sibley much worse than he fared at the hands of the seventh district when he tried conclusions with Congressman Maddox.

The Albany Herald says that Colonel R. D. Locke is coming down in the second district to make some speeches for McKinley. "It will be love's labor lost," adds The Herald.

The Brunswick Evening Advertiser says that Glynn county should give W. G. Brantley 1,000 majority, if there is really any individual excuse to prevent an unanimous vote.

THE WORLD OVER.

Florida Times-Union: The Armenian question is being rapidly settled. That is, the Armenians are all being killed.

Rochester Union and Advertiser: That Ireland has not forgotten Charles Stewart Parnell is shown by the fact that yesterday, the fifth anniversary of his funeral, a procession, which took an hour and a half in passing a given point, marched to Glasnevin cemetery, where his grave was covered with flowers and wreaths.

St. Louis Republic: John Bull has begun to see the Venezuela question in a new light, and one that is very favorable to this country. There is nothing so effective with John as a little determined diplomacy.

New York Tribune: The sudden and tragic death of Dr. Benson, the ninety-fourth archbishop of Cantebury, removes a successful but not a great man from the leadership of the Anglican church. It was a curious and dramatic coincidence that he was stricken down, not merely while taking part in public worship, but in the parish church of Hawarden, Mr. Gladstone's own church, and while a guest of Mr. Gladstone at his home in Hawarden castle. For it was Mr. Gladstone who appointed him to the archbishopric of Canterbury.

A Political Teacher.

From The Columbus, O., Press.

With such a school teacher in Georgia as The Atlanta Constitution, the recent democratic majority is no surprise. The back-sliding of The Courier-Journal has left The Constitution the greatest paper in the south, and one of the ablest in the United States. Its political doctrines are better than some religions.

In the Republican Banks.

From The Columbus Ledger.

There is one thing which the sound money bolters from the democratic party are going to discover, and that is that the party will get along without them just as well as with them. They have gone into the republican ranks, but they ought to know that they do not leave any sad-eyed fellows behind them. The democratic party wants every fellow in the land who favors good government, with equal rights to all, in its ranks, but when any of its members come to love the principles of democracy less than those of republicanism it is time for them to "make tracks." The party has no strings tied to them. They can get out without untieing any knots or breaking any traces.

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

Thoughts of Winter.

I'm studyin' 'bout the winter time,
With fires blazin' bright,
When all the cottage walls air green
When all the cottage walls air green
An' medders mostly white.
When from the breezy country side
The blue smoke up'ards curls,
An' the mistletoe is temptin'
The red lips o' the girls.

Then it's, "Balance to yer pardners!"
An', "Ladies to the right!"
An', "Han's all roun', my Honey!"
That makes a winter's night!

I'm happy in the winter time;
Fer what's the snow an' sleet,
When the fiddle makes the music
Fer a feller's willin' feet?
When the gals air candy-pullin'—
The old folks noddin' nigh,
An' the mistleto is temptin'
The red lips—on the sly!

Then it's, "Balance to yer pardners!"
An', "Ladies to the right!"
An', "Han's all roun', my Honey!"
That makes a winter's night!

Figures, as a rule, don't lie; but when they go to bed with Brother Hanna they lie long and fearfully.

An exchange tells of three offices that "sought the men," but does not specify how much the men got away with.

The signal service flag is on the cold wave; and just think—that election bet would have bought six tons!

Our exchanges are talking of an elevator boy who writes poetry. That is not strange: Poetry was always elevating.

Some of these autumn days are wonderfully still; and then, at night we have the moonshine still.

Paying Up.

To bet, or not to bet?
That was the riddle;
But, having danced,
I needs must pay the fiddle.

Send Jones an overcoat.
(That's twenty dollars!)
Jenkins, a hat—and Brown,
Six shirts and collars.

To Smithers send
The suit I designated;
To Green, the boots
For which he's got me slated.

I'm very glad no more
(Colonel Jim Jams will call
And get my dwelling!)

This is such bracing weather that no man should be surprised if a campaign friend occasionally tackles him for $10.

The republicans have a campaign train in the west. The voters, however, won't train to any extent to champion Mr. Hanna's prize fight.

The candidates who fell by the wayside in the democratic snowstorm are now getting acquainted with their debts and families.

Mr. Alfred Austin now has a chance at the late archbishop of England. But Mr. Austin can't write a live poem on a dead man.

WITH GEORGIA EDITORS.

The political poet of The Gainesville Cracker sings:

"Democracy dead in the ninth? did you say,
Not a bit of it, stranger you're wrong;
There's not the least danger of death or decay,—
You'll see for yourself before long;
By the ides of November,
You'll clearly remember,
A change in the populist's song.

Democracy dead in the ninth? no, sir, no—
Reserve all your flowers and tears,
You'll need them to soften the populist's woe,
Democracy merits no fears,
For this part of the state,
Is just solid for Tate,
The old party'll go in with three cheers."

Says The Sandersville Progress:

"Georgia does not want the dispensary system, or Bush bill. Those voters who want to live under this law can do so by moving over to South Carolina."

Says The Augusta Chronicle:

"Regret is general at the illness of Mr. Watson. The opinion is expressed that he is having a hard enough row to hoe just at this time, without the addition of bodily ailments."

It is an ill wind that blows no good. The tidal wave at Brunswick filled the town with marsh hens and gave everybody a square meal.

Says The Athens Banner:

"Eighteen ninety-six is the brightest year the University of Georgia has yet had. Three cheers—rah! rah! rah! for Georgia!

The Rome Tribune observes that the tidal wave that swept the Atlantic coast the other day was an indication that the briny deep had gone democratic.

The Jackson Herald tells of a voter who gave his age at 104 years. And he voted the straight democratic ticket.

THE HEAT OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Chicago Dispatch: Mr. Depew is right in saying borrowed money has developed the west, but he is wrong in wanting the west to pay back double what it borrowed in principle as well as an annual interest on the loan.

Columbus, O., Press: The country at large has never had as good an opportunity as since the Chicago convention to take the measure of David B. Hill. He is the deadest man who is still living.

Los Angeles Herald: The Hon. Thomas Watson has received a threatening letter from The Los Angeles Democratic League. The New York World last Friday reproduced a facsimile of the letter. Both Mr. Watson and The New York World have been victims of a crazy hoax. There is no "Los Angeles Democratic League."

Kansas City Times: McKinley held his ear to the long-distance telephone Friday to catch the noise made by Hanna's hired paraders in Chicago. If he'll keep his ear to the ground on the evening of November 3d he'll hear the shouts of the voters from all over the country, hurrahing over the election of William J. Bryan.

What Gold Monometallism Means.

From The London Times and Echo.

If the single gold standard can be forced upon South America and Asia, as it has been since 1873 forced on North America and Europe, gold must inevitably appreciate to at least four times its present assured value; or, to put it otherwise, commodities must decline to one-fourth of the present price, and labor, all the world over, be crucified as it never was crucified before—in days of medieval serfdom or even chattel slavery.

"Best in America."

From The Sandersville Progress.

The Atlanta Constitution had a complete report of last Wednesday's election in Thursday morning's issue, and the report covered every county in the state, being remarkably accurate. The Constitution is the most enterprising paper in America.

STRAY BITS OF REAL LIFE.

"I'll bet my hat it's a bridal couple. I can tell 'em anywhere."

"Yes, and see how shyly she looks up at him. You can't fool me; I've been here too long."

"I guess you fellows must be right," said the only passenger on the sleeper who was at all disposed to doubt the relation of the two young people seated in lower 8. "My wife's certain of it, and she's not easy to fool. Have cigars?"

"Just look at 'em! Just like all young fools when they get married. I'd gave a farm just to hear what they're talking about. Rich, isn't it? I'll bet a horse he's holding her hand. Traveling would be stupid without such young idiots."

"I'll tell you what, fellows; let's make up a purse and buy them a real fine bouquet at Washington—telegraph ahead and have it down at the train. It would be a lark."

"Great! I'll go two dollars."

It was easy to run it up to $15; the telegram was fired off and in the meantime the skeptical gentleman borrowed his wife's box of candy and sent it to the young couple. They evidently enjoyed it.

Washington was duly reached. The eager gentlemen hurried out to skirmish for their floral offering. It was there and a beauty. The travelers scurried back to the sleeper. The young couple had left the car; the young man was making an extended adieu. The flower bearers pushed forward valiantly.

"My dear madame," said the leader, "if you will permit—"

She looked around amazed.

"Why," she stammered, "I don't understand—I—" She turned away somewhat confusedly.

"Your company has been a great pleasure, I assure you," the young man was saying to her. "I am only sorry you are not going further. I trust we'll meet again soon."

The floral gentlemen looked at each other foolishly. The young woman looked at them dignifiedly as she swept out.

"I think there is some mistake," she said. Her angry escort was later appeased by the floral design—and other offerings. As for the wise students of life, they have retired for a season.

This fellow Lord Russell appears to have a fairly sane idea of how a mother-in-law should be treated. He had his put in jail.

Atlanta has caught hold of one of the livest of modern sciences—hypnotism. It has never received a one-hundredth part of the attention that it is receiving now.

We have enough amateur hypnotists to equip an army huge enough to free Cuba. They have developed on all sides. They are industriously experimenting with their powers and during the past three weeks some really powerful hypnotists have discovered themselves. I saw one of them give a performance yesterday. He displayed the subtle power in a marked degree, putting willing subjects to sleep and controlling them as he willed.

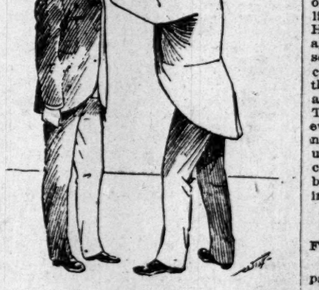

"I only discovered that I possessed the force two weeks ago," he said. "I have done lots of experimenting since and have put many subjects under my control. Nearly every one has the hypnotic power in a more or less degree."

Atlanta has been captured by the craze and a crop of hypnotists sufficient in power and numbers to put the whole city to sleep are coming to the front.

This investigation of occult forces is widespread.

The other night in the Imperial hotel in New York I heard an intertaining story of the operation of some mysterious power.

Paul Dresser, the song writer, who, by the way, wrote "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me," had just given a dinner to a select circle of friends. It was a sort of personal celebration of his, in honor of his song having reached the 200,000 mark. At the dinner Dresser had told a story.

The story ran back beyond the time when he became a song writer. He was an actor, a rather inconsequent comedian, and was one of the Johns in "The Two Johns" company. It was neither pleasant nor profitable, his theatrical life on the road, jumping as he did from town to town and reaping small reward.

"We were in Denver," he said. "Some of us heard a fellow they called Professor Leonard, who could read the future for you at so much per read. We tackled him, as a sort of time-killing experiment. When I went up against him he came at me hard.

"'You don't amount to much as an actor, and never will,' he said. 'You ought to write songs. You will some day. You'll write a popular song that will have a tremendous go and you'll sell over 200,000 of them.'

"I laughed at the trashy nonsense. I only recently recalled the incident. It was not until three years later that I ever wrote a song and then quite by accident. Queer, though, wasn't it?"

"I should like to meet your friend," said one of the guests fervently.

They were still talking of the incident when they entered the Imperial. A striking looking man was leaning against the marble register smoking. Dresser stopped short.

"Well, I'll—say, fellows, there's my friend, Leonard!"

And it was—the same. They had a long review of occultism generally in the cafe a little later.

Leonard is a wonder in his way and has been mystifying some of the most intelligent and scientific people of New York. He has made a mint of money performing his wonderful feats of reading the future and the past at a dollar a minute.

GOSSIP OF THE DAY.

"I regard Minnesota as absolutely safe for Bryan," said Judge J. L. McDonald, ex-congressman from that state, to a reporter for The Washington Post last Monday evening. Judge McDonald was elected to the fiftieth congress as a democrat, but four years ago he took issue with Mr. Cleveland's financial policy, and has since co-operated with the populists, having managed the campaign of their gubernatorial candidate, Owen, who, two years ago polled about 87,000 votes against Knute Nelson, republican.

"There is a heavy fight going on," he continued, "and the republicans are making almost superhuman efforts to carry the state, but I think they realize that they are beaten. The free silver forces are well organized and working in perfect harmony. The democratic gold vote, which has been so widely advertised, will cut but a sorry figure in Minnesota. Best of all, we have the Australian ballot, without which I should fear for the result. That system gives to Bryan the labor vote that needs the protection of secrecy, and I have personal knowledge that our laboring men are going to support him. The farming vote cannot be alienated from him.

"There is a Scandinavian Lind and Bryan club in St. Paul, with a large membership, and all of them, except about a dozen, have been republicans. Lind will be elected governor easily, and a large per cent of the Scandinavian vote behind him will go to Bryan. The city of Minneapolis is in a most satisfactory condition, and I have no doubt that even St. Paul, where the entire press has the gold rabies, Bryan will obtain a majority."

"When a few zealous and patriotic silver men held a convention in Washington city a year ago last September, I predicted at the time that they were giving shape to a movement which would put a free silver man in the white house," said ex-Congressman Casey Young, of Memphis, Tenn., at the Metropolitan hotel, in Washington city, one day this week.

"The prediction is, I think, about to be fulfilled. It is my belief that William J. Bryan is destined to be the next president of the United States. All the powers of wealth, all the combines, trusts and plutocratic forces are trying to down him, and that makes the people all the more ardent in his support. From the hour he was nominated I have had the fullest confidence in his triumph.

"Tennessee will give him in the neighborhood of 30,000 majority, and Taylor will be elected governor by about the same figures. The state was never in doubt, and the sentiment of free coinage never weakened. In the Memphis district the indications point to the election of Carmack for congress, against Josiah Patterson, the goldbug candidate."

Mr. John C. Small, a populist writer on The Houston (Texas) Daily Post, was interviewed a few days ago while stopping over in Kansas City by a reporter for The Times, of that city. Mr. Small is confident of democratic success in November, and believes that Bryan will be elected by an overwhelming majority. Said he:

"Bryan has a walkover. He will carry the country, I believe, by a majority exceeding even his own expectations. From reading the exchanges before starting on this journey, I was somewhat in doubt as to the result of the issue, but I find that these exchanges claim many states that McKinley has absolutely no chance of carrying. I regret that so many of our leading journals have sided with the gold standard, but some of these journals are now regretting it much more than I am.

"In Chicago the press is almost unanimously opposed to silver, but, notwithstanding this fact, Illinois is going overwhelmingly for Bryan. This fact proves that the American people refuse to let others do their thinking. One thing I noticed in particular was that every newspaper supporting the democratic nominee is increasing its circulation to an extent that is almost phenomenal, while the gold bug papers are losing subscribers by the hundreds every day. To the thinking man this is another evidence that the American people in general are not blind, and that they abhor dishonesty."

Mr. Small places all of the states considered doubtful, in Mark Hanna's reckonings, in the Bryan column, besides many that are claimed altogether by the republicans. Among the latter is Texas, which, he says, the goldites have not the first chance to carry. He also thinks that Bryan will carry New York by a safe majority, though he says the victory would be complete without New York's assistance.

"I am a political orphan this year," said Mr. Fred W. Bentley, a prominent young lawyer of Wichita, Kan., at the Metropolitan hotel, in Washington city, a few days ago. "I have been taught to hate bolters by the very men who have bolted the democratic party; McKinleyism in the sense of a robber tariff is detestable, and I cannot agree to Mr. Bryan's financial policy.

"But the state of Kansas can be relied on to give Bryan a majority, something like 15,000 or 20,000. That much is certain. Had the election come off two months ago, he would have swept the state by something like 60,000 majority. The republicans have been making frantic appeals to their people, and have undoubtedly whipped a good many of them back into line. There is an element in their party, however, that no sort of inducement can reach, no influence change, and this element is unalterably for silver. This is why Kansas can be left out of the McKinley column by all people who are trying to make up intelligent forecasts."

Workingmen, Take Notice.

From The New York Journal.

The Journal is convinced that the greater part, the overwhelmingly greater part, of what is called the labor vote, not only in this city but throughout the nation, is to be cast for Bryan. Some workingmen there are who hesitate, and their hesitation doubtless proceeds from their doubt as to the effect of free coinage upon their personal fortunes. To such we would address a few questions, leaving them to answer according to their understanding:

Have you noticed that all the trusts, all the millionaire corporations, the Rockefellers, Pullmans, Hannas, Carnegies and Paynes, the railroad companies, which maintain black lists, and the telegraph companies, are supporting his candidacy to one of friendliness to labor?

Have you noticed that every corporation and every individual enjoying profitable privileges from the government is for McKinley? Does this argue that his success will bring about that regime of equal rights to all and special privileges to none under which only can the poor man enjoy his just share of governmental benefits?

Have you noticed that all the gold papers complain that the silver miner will get one dollar for each 371¼ grains of his silver and make a profit of 50 cents? Does this look as if you were going to get only a fifty-three cent dollar?

Looking back over your experience have you ever seen work plenty when the farmers were impoverished, and did you ever know wages to be high when employment was scarce?

But above all, can you discern any reason why every element in the industrial organization of society against which you have had to strive for your rights, and almost for your existence, is for McKinley, unless it is that Bryan's election would make your struggle easier and your existence pleasanter?

JOHNSON IS FREE

APPLAUSE FOLLOWS VERDICT

"Thank You, Gentlemen," Said the Negro, as He Shook Hands with Jury.

UNUSUAL SCENES IN THE COURTROOM

Verdict Was Announced at 10:20 Last Night—Scenes of the Trial and the Evidence in Detail.

Christopher Columbus Johnson walked a free man from the courthouse last night at 10:30 o'clock.

At 10:20 o'clock Judge Spence reached the courtroom, and the jury that had been waiting more than three hours for his arrival was brought into the room.

The verdict was received by Attorney Robinson. As he held the paper in his hand the audience was silent.

"We, the jury, find the defendant not guilty," read the attorney.

The courtroom was crowded at the time, and as the words fell from Mr. Robinson's lips the crowd gave one prolonged cheer for the prisoner. The judge and bailiffs rapped for order, but the shout filled the courtroom, and was hard across the street.

Johnson, who had been sitting in the room for three hours, sprang to his feet.

"I don't know any of you who have saved an innocent man's neck," exclaimed the prisoner, "but I want to shake your hands. You have done me a great favor. I was innocent, and you all knew it."

Laughing and weeping histerically, Johnson grasped the outstretched hands of the jurors and shook their hands for several minutes.

"I'm grateful to you all, gentlemen," said he, "and I want you to know how grateful I am."

When Johnson passed out of the railing into which he had been led handcuffed by the bailiff, he was caught up in the crowd of negroes that had been patiently awaiting the announcement of the verdict, and he was fairly carried out of the room.

Attorney Ed Robinson, who had defended the prisoner, and had conducted the defense from the first, was heartily congratulated by the friends of the young man, who had waited three hours to learn of the negro's fate.

The scene that followed the verdict has probably never before been equalled at a trial where a negro was the defendant. Interest had been centered upon the trial, and everybody had been worked up to a fever heat of excitement.

Jury Reaches a Verdict.

At 5 o'clock the jury retired to the jury room, and at 6:55 a verdict was announced, and a bailiff was sent after Judge Spence.

Judge Spence was not at the Kimball house, where he had been stopping. A search was made for him at the office of an attorney, but without success. Others were sent in search of the judge, but he could not be found.

An hour slipped by, and the crowd in the courtroom increased. The audience began to get restless. At frequent intervals someone would clap their hands, as an audience will do at the play when the curtain delays to rise.

Someone suggested that Judge Spence was at the home of Mr. Luther Rosser, at West End, and a telephone message was sent out, stating that a verdict had been reached, and for the judge to come in as quickly as possible.

When 10 o'clock arrived the crowd was exceedingly restless. Johnson was nervous over the delay, and the jury began to call frequently for the bailiffs.

"If you can get a messenger boy," said one of the jury as he shouted to the bailiff, "I will pay the boy to go after the judge. We haven't had any supper, and are hungry."

"Send a hack after him," suggested another juryman. "I live out in the country and want to get home tonight."

Then the audience amused itself by cheering the remarks of the jurors. Another bailiff was sent to the Kimball, and he was followed by others who were on the same mission. In the meantime the crowd was entertained by listening to jokes and stories told by several of the number who were in better humor than their fellows. When Judge Spence received the verdict he apologized to the jury for his long delay in reaching the courtroom, saying that he had been out of the city.

After the verdict was announced the crowd quickly dispersed, and the courthouse was dark within a few minutes.

Defense Continues Testimony.

When court reconvened yesterday morning, Attorney Burckhart was introduced by the defense to impeach the testimony given the day before by Jim Jenkins, the negro witness for the state.

Mr. Burckhart swore that he would not believe Jenkins on oath in a court of justice; that his character was bad and his general reputation of a very unsavory nature.

Officer Tysor testified that he made an examination of the embankment and discovered many tracks and footprints about the place.

"It looked as if it had been used as a playground," said the officer. "There were a number of footprints and the weeds had been mashed down and tramped upon."

Officer Tysor examined the pistol. He did not believe the pistol had been fired recently.

Attorney Pettigrew swore he knew Mr. Bass quite well and had heard the latter threaten to kill himself.

"Mr. Bass was very despondent and told me," said the attorney, "that he was in financial troubles. He appeared to be very gloomy and didn't hesitate to say that he was miserable."

Detectives on the Trail.

Dr. Carnes, who had known Baker Bass intimately for several months prior to his death, testified that Bass was despondent and was in financial trouble.

"Mr. Bass told me that his business was involved and he was being pursued by the detectives and was being hounded own. He told me he had a great mind to kill the detectives and then kill himself in order to save his family from disgrace. 'If I should kill myself you need not be surprised,' he told me."

Bookkeeper Malone, of the Riley-Grant Company, testified Bass carried a policy for $5,000. Mr. West also testified that Mr. Bass carried a similar policy with his company, which was paid in full.

J. A. Malone, of the United States Casualty Company, said Bass carried a policy of $10,000 with him. He said the policy was compromised on account of the circumstances of Mr. Bass's death.

Johnson Makes His Statement.

Johnson was placed on the stand at 9:40 o'clock and made his statement to the jury. Johnson said:

"Gentlemen, this is the second time I have been here to tell you the truth. I was released from the convict camp at 8 o'clock on Thursday night before Friday the morning of the murder of Mr. Bass. I was about two miles out Peachtree street when I left the camp. I came straight into town and slept Thursday night in a house on Piedmont avenue.

"Mr. Bass and myself were friends. He did not have any of my money and did not owe me one cent, as has been rumored.

"Sarah Scott has never liked me. Jesse Jones, who swore he saw me running down Ellis street, I have never seen before. I am not just talking, for I know this is a serious case. I am perfectly innocent and did not kill Mr. Bass. I don't know anything about the murder. I never went to Sarah Scott's house, as she was mad with me.

"Sarah Scott came about the house where I was staying, but I wouldn't let her come in. She would cry and beg to see me, but I knew she was a bad woman and I didn't want to have anything to do with her. She wanted me to carry her to Chattanooga and because I wouldn't take her, she fell out with me and made threats."

Other Witnesses Testify.

After Johnson's statement had been given, Attorney Welborn was sworn to impeach the testimony of Jim Jenkins.

Jenkins swore that he had heard Johnson say that he had fixed a man on Ivy street. Mr. Welborn swore he would not believe Jenkins on oath.

Officer Bedford, who was a detective when Bass was killed, testified yesterday that he was detailed on the case and several other detectives have worked on the case.

"We have not been able to solve the mystery of the murder and have never been able to arrest the murderer," said the ex-detective.

A diagram of the streets and locality of the scene of murder was then tendered in evidence. With this the defense closed.

Witnesses in Rebuttal.

Coroner Paden recited the examination before the coroner's inquest. The pistol and clothes of the dead man were also examined by Mr. Paden.

"The pistol contained two loaded cartridges and three blank shells. In the muzzle of the pistol was lint, which showed that it had been fired before the lint accumulated in the pistol barrel."

Coroner Paden said he could not smell any powder about the pistol, and it was his opinion that none of the cartridges had been fired for several days.

Ex-Detective Jim Wooten swore he would believe Jim Jenkins on oath. Similar testimony was given by Detective Looney. He said Jenkins had furnished a good deal of information to the city detectives.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Attorney Robinson of Detective Looney, "that you have been connected with the Bass murder?"

"I never heard anything about it," replied the witness.

A number of witnesses were introduced to substantiate the character of Jenkins, and others were sworn to impeach several negro witnesses that had previously testified for the defense.

Judge Landrum testified that Sarah Scott was employed to sweep and clean his office, and that he would believe her on oath in a court of justice. Bailiff Payne swore he would believe the woman on oath.

Bass Carried Heavy Insurance.

George M. McKinnon, uncle of the wife of Bass, testified that Mr. Bass carried $15,000 accident insurance and $14,000 life. Much of the insurance was compromised, as the "suicide and murder feature" would have caused a contest, and the policies were compromised in order to prevent litigation.

J. M. Wilson, a white man, living near by, swore he heard the pistol shot and ran out. The police were just arriving. He made an examination of the place, and saw footprints on the embankment and in the weeds on top of the embankment he saw the impression of a man. It was his opinion that the man had been lying on his elbow, as the indentation on the ground showed this.

At the conclusion of the testimony of Mr. Wilson the state rested, and the defense also announced ready.

State Opens the Argument.

Four speeches were made, two by the counsel for the defense and two by the state.

Solicitor Charley Hill opened for the prosecution. His speech was brief, but to the point, and he touched upon the testimony given by the defense and contrasted it with that introduced by the state. He reviewed the character of the witnesses and referred to the suicide feature as an impossible as well as improbable occurrence. He said the deed was murder, as the torn coat and shirt collar showed conclusively that Bass and his assailant had grappled fiercely before the fatal shot was fired.

"Suicide is a dream of the imagination; murder is the real solution of the case," said he. "I reach this conclusion from the testimony, the character of the witnesses and all the circumstances of the tragedy."

Solicitor Hill was followed by Attorney E. P. Upshaw, who had been associated with Attorney J. E. Robinson, for the defense. Mr. Upshaw had not taken an active interest in the examination of witnesses, but his speech before the jury showed that he had been an attentive listener, and well remembered the names of the witnesses and the substance of each one's testimony. He spoke earnestly to the twelve men before him, and handled the evidence in an exceedingly clever manner.

Concluding Argument Is Made.

At 2 o'clock court reconvened, and Attorney Robinson concluded the argument for the defense.

Mr. Robinson's speech was a brilliant effort. The testimony was handled in an exceedingly clever manner, and his climax electrified the audience. He spoke for more than an hour, reviewing the witnesses and explaining the intricate features of the case.

Colonel Tinnie Rucker followed, concluding the argument. His speech held the attention of the jury and spectators, and he showed that Johnson was the only man in the entire case that had shown any malice against Mr. Bass, and was probably the only one who knew the way Mr. Bass would go from his home to his store.

Charge of Judge Spence.

Judge Spence delivered his charge to the jury, carefully explaining what was contemplated by the law in the case, and stating what were the duties of the jurors.

Judge Spence spoke deliberately and slowly, and emphasized the fact that the defense had claimed to have impeached the principal witnesses for the state.

The jury retired to the jury room at 5 o'clock.

AND IT NEVER CAME

WANTS $10,000 AS A RESULT

Secured Ads. for the Proposed Gold Edition That Died A-Borning.

SAYS HIS CUSTOMERS WERE DISAPPOINTED

And That His Credit as a Business Man Has Been Injured on Account of the Failure of the Edition.

The proposed special gold edition of The Atlanta Journal that was to enlighten the dark spots of the state and carry civilization among the heathen, and which, like the proverbial letter, never came, has caused a damage suit in the sum of $10,000 to be filed in the city court by Attorneys Culberson & Blalock, representing Charles H. Nicoll, of New York.

The petition that has been filed in the office of Clerk Tanner shows that a contract was entered into between The Journal and Jemison Ball, of Chicago, and that the contract was dated February 11, 1896. On May 16th it is alleged that the contract was transferred to Charles H. Nicoll, the plaintiff in the suit for damages.

The contract, which is inserted in the petition and made a part of the suit, shows that it was signed by Business Manager H. H. Cabaniss. It is also shown that Mr. Ball, the original signee of the contract, agreed to the following conditions:

"That The Atlanta Journal, party of the first part, agrees to insert in a special edition to be known as the New York and New England edition, seven or more columns for the sum of $28.58 for each and every column inserted.

"It is further agreed that all advertisements to be inserted in this special edition are to be secured in New York and New England by the said Jemison Ball, party of the second part, who agrees to furnish said Journal all copy and cuts in first-class condition five days prior to the day of publication.

"It is further agreed that no advertisements objectionable to The Journal shall be inserted.

"The said Jemison Ball, party of the second part, agrees to deposit with The Atlanta Journal all contracts made by himself or agents. The Journal is to select from these contracts double the amount sufficient to cover the indebtedness of said Jemison Ball to The Journal and to indorse the remainder over to said Ball's order.

"The Journal after collecting contracts and deducting the amount that is due it for inserting the advertisements secured by said Jemison Ball, is to refund to said Jemison Ball all money that is in excess of what is necessary to pay for inserting the advertisements furnished by him."

Mr. Nicoll says, after the contract was transferred to him, that he employed solicitors and agents to secure the advertisements. He claims that he secured more than enough to fill the allotted space and a contract was then made so as to make the space six pages of advertising matter, for which he was to pay at the rate of $200 per page. He claims it was further agreed that he was to have two pages extra for unpaid matter and that The Journal agreed to procure twenty-five other weekly newspapers in Georgia, Alabama and Florida to use the special edition of The Journal as a supplement. This was to cost $125 in addition.

Mr. Nicoll claims he secured the advertisements, but was prevented from having them inserted, as President Hoke Smith telegraphed a suspension of the work. He says he was notified by wire from Mr. Smith that the special edition would not be published.

It is claimed by Nicoll that he has spent much money in getting up the contracts with various advertisers and that his rating and standing as a business man has been injured by the refusal of The Journal to carry out its contract with him.

The case is directed to the city court and will probably come up for trial in the near future.

SMASHED HIS FACE

Dick Moody Viciously Assaults a Grand Jury Witness.

USED A HEAVY HICKORY CANE

S. M. Ford, of Augusta, the Injured Man.

WAS KNOCKED DOWN IN THE POSTOFFICE

While S. M. Ford, of Augusta, was entering the United States building yesterday morning on his way to the United States attorney's office to report as a witness in a grand jury case against Richard Moody, of this city, but formerly of Augusta, Moody stepped up to him and with a hickory cane smashed Ford across the nose so fiercely as to momentarily blind him. Moody followed this up with another vicious blow on Ford's head, which cut a bad gash and knocked Ford down. While he was down Moody struck him three stiff blows on the arms which raised large bruises.

Deputy Marshal Wadley was near at the time. He rushed up to prevent further trouble.

A patrol wagon was summoned and the assailed and assailant were taken at once before Judge Calhoun, who fined Moody $15 and costs and discharged Ford. The fine was paid. Moody went his way. Ford reported to the grand jury, as had been his first intention, and testified in the case, charging Moody with sending obscene letters through the mail. The grand jury found a true bill against Moody on this charge and he will be tried before Judge Newman at the present term of the United States court.

Ford reported the assault to United States Commissioner Broyles, who issued a warrant for Moody's arrest on the charge of attempting to intimidate a witness to prevent him testifying. The punishment in case of conviction is a fine of $500 or three months' imprisonment. Judge Broyles holds that as the offense was committed in a building belonging to the United States government it is a United States case. Though he has been punished by Judge Calhoun he may also suffer at the hands of Judge Newman.

Ford declares that Moody without cause sent him a letter blackguarding him and threatening him. He says that he has never done Moody a wrong in his life and that Moody's enmity to him is a strange thing. When asked about the case yesterday he said:

"Before Moody moved to Atlanta I knew him in Augusta. I had nothing whatever against him and we were not unfriendly until a short while before his departure. When he contemplated moving to Atlanta he asked me to buy his carpenter's tools and I did so. The money was paid over and there has never been any difference between us on money matters whatever.

"One day a friend of mine told me Moody had threatened to kill me and when I met his mother soon afterwards I asked her why her son had made such a threat against me, and told her to tell him, when she saw him, to fight me fair when he met me. She said her son had not abused or threatened me and then she began to criticise her son's wife and family to me. Soon after that Moody left Augusta and later he wrote me a letter in which he used very obscene remarks about me.

"I asked the advice of some of my friends about the matter and they told me to turn the letter over to the Augusta postoffice authorities and they would punish him for sending obscene letters through the mails. I did this. Mr. Calhoun, of the Augusta postoffice, took the case in hand. He asked me to write Moody another letter to see what he would say so as to use the second letter as substantiating evidence for the first letter when the case came to trial. This I did and showed the letter to Mr. Calhoun and then sent it to Moody. In that letter I asked him why he had sent me such an outrageous letter and told him that if he would come to Augusta there would be no brick wall between us. Moody did not answer that letter and I have never heard anything from him until this morning when he came up on me and before I knew he was around struck me in the face with a heavy hickory stick."

PRESIDENT D. C. JOHN.

Resigned Presidency of Clark University to Go Into Religious Work In Wisconsin.

DR. JOHN GOES OUT

He Resigns the Presidency of Clark University.

HE WILL GO TO WISCONSIN

Has Been Appointed to a High Church Position.

WILL MAKE HIS HOME IN MILWAUKEE

His Successor at the University Has Not Yet Been Selected—His Work in Atlanta.

Rev. D. C. John, D. D., who has for three years been president of Clark university, has resigned the presidency of that institution and will leave next week for Milwaukee, Wis.

He resigns his position to accept an appointment as presiding elder of the Milwaukee district of the Wisconsin conference. He was in attendance at the last session of the Milwaukee conference, which is one of the leading conferences of Methodism of which he has been a member for years.

His notable ability as a preacher and as an educator has given him a high standing in his conference. This was demonstrated by his appointment to the office of presiding elder of the Milwaukee district by the bishop. The district embraces thirty of the leading churches of the conference, and his position is one of great honor and responsibility.

Dr. John was present at the conference when his appointment was made, and though he had intended to stay in Atlanta for the remainder of this year, he accepted the position at once. His resignation takes effect on the 20th of the month, and on that day he will leave the state of Georgia to take charge of his district and begin his duties as presiding elder.

Dr. John has as high a standing as an educator as almost any other man in this country. For years he was president of the State Normal school of Wisconsin. Afterwards he held the presidency of Hamlin university at St. Paul, which is one of the principal Methodist institutions of Minnesota.

Has Done Good Work Here.

In 1890 Dr. John came to Atlanta and held a position in Clark university as one of the chief instructors. His principal reason for coming south was on account of the sickness of his wife. The climate here suited her and he came in order to allow her to regain her health. He remained here for one year and, his wife having regained her health, he moved back to the north.

A few years later the president's chair of Clark university was made vacant and Dr. John was appointed to the important position. His appointment was due to his wide reputation he had made as an educator and to the fact that he had been here and knew exactly how the institution should be conducted.

Since he took charge of the university, Dr. John has entirely reorganized the institution and has put everything on an excellent basis. His work has been thorough and complete and the school stands in a better condition than it has ever been before.

The system now in vogue at the school is an excellent one and is complete in every detail. Dr. John has worked arduously for the upbuilding of the institution of which he has been president for three years and is justly proud of the good results that have come from his labors.

He said yesterday that he loved Atlanta and thought that it was the most beautiful as well as the most progressive city of the south. He has made hundreds of friends during his stay here and for many reasons feels sorry to leave the place.

Dr. John's advancing years and the call to a position of such unusual influence has induced him to lay down the work of the university with its manifold cares and constantly pressing demands upon his strength.

During the past year he has visited the district conferences throughout this state, where he has been heard by large and enthusiastic audiences. He has been a familiar figure all over the state since he has held the presidency of the institution and his departure will be the cause of general regret. He has won the respect of all by his high character as a preacher and as an educator.

He has written a work on logic that is on an entirely original plan. It is now in the hands of the publishers and will be in a short while on sale all over this country.

No Successor Named.

No successor to Dr. John has yet been named. It will probably be some time before a man is chosen, owing to the necessity of getting a person who is thoroughly familiar with the work of this kind. Dr. John has conducted Clark university in a more thorough manner and on a higher scale than it was ever conducted before. His administration has been one of complete success and to find a man who will be able to do the work as he has done it will be indeed a hard matter. Those who have charge of selecting his successor will probably have the matter under consideration before taking any action.

Before coming to Atlanta Dr. John resided in Milwaukee, and it is his old home. For that reason, as much as any other, he accepted the appointment to the office of presiding elder of the Milwaukee district of the Wisconsin conference.

Though he dislikes very much to leave Atlanta and the many friends he has here, at the same time he will be glad to get back to his old home once more.

Will Be Tendered a Reception.

Dr. and Mrs. John made many warm friends, and these will feel a deep sense of personal loss at their sudden departure. Mrs. John is a woman of unusual culture, having been educated in history and literature at Vassar college and Cornell university. She has been of much assistance to Dr. John in his work and it is greatly due to her untiring efforts that he has been able to get such good results.

Before Dr. and Mrs. John leave the city they will be tendered a reception in the library building of Gammon Theological seminary by the faculty of the seminary. The leading teachers of several institutions will be present and all will bid the president and his wife goodby.

Under the administration of Dr. John the Gammon seminary and Clark university have enjoyed a reign of perfect harmony and cordial co-operation. President Thirkeld stated yesterday that the Gammon faculty experienced a feeling of deep personal loss in the departure of Dr. and Mrs. John and carry with them the best wishes of all for their success.

TO TAKE CENSUS IN NOVEMBER.

City Will Ask for Legislation on the Matter of the General Assembly.

At the coming session of the legislature the city will ask for legislation authorizing it to take a census of Atlanta some time before January 1st. The census will probably be taken in November or the first part of December.

The census will be taken at the direction of the committee on manufactures of the council, of which Mayor Pro Tem. Hirsch is chairman. That committee has been investigating the matter for some time and as soon as the necessary state legislation is secured the work of taking the census will be arranged.

In order to make the census official and acceptable to the government it will be necessary for the secretary of state to participate in the selection of enumerators and to have other powers in connection with the matter. The government requires that the secretary of state take a hand in census taken under such circumstances before it will recognize the census as official and grant increased facilities to the post-office department.

It is confidently expected by the committee in charge of the matter that the census will show Atlanta's population to be over 100,000. It is said that the actual work of enumerating the citizens will not require more than three days, the intention of the committee being to put several dozen enumerators to work in the different wards. The census will be complete and it will be made the official guide to the city's population until the national census of 1900 is taken.

MR. HIRSCH LEAVES TODAY.

SAYS HIS FOOD IS POISONED.

Ben Osborn, who killed Theodore Schrader last Friday afternoon, became angry yesterday and refused to eat the food sent to the jail for him. He threw the victuals out of his cell, declaring that they were sent to poison him. He has not spoken an intelligible word since his arrest shortly after shooting Schrader, so far as known.

OVERCOATS AND SUITS

We are gaining friends every day selling elegant Overcoats $10 to $35, mostly silk-lined. Every Overcoat looks as if it was made to measure for the man it fits. It feels as it fits.
After all is said, we do more than put in good quality and good workmanship. The rarest art in tailoring is to give a garment the distinguished air. There is something uppish about the Overcoats we are now displaying. It's the tone—not the price.

Ready-to-Wear.
Our Clothing is liberally made Clothing. There is nothing skimpy or stingy about it. The collars on the coats have a broad, full roll. The facings are deep and reach to the arm-holes. No little, stingy savings on cloth are made. After we have given you these points, go and take a look at other ready-to-wear Clothing, and you'll come back to us. The world's best Suits and Coats--$10 to $30 or your money back.

A Special and Open Letter

This is not an economic homily of a general and perfunctory nature. The consummate eloquence and trenchant pen of orators and editors are giving us all quite enough of that. What follows is a direct and powerful appeal meant to influence every reader in the matter of where to spend their money for such personal and domestic needs which we, as modern merchants, are in position to supply.

We want you to discriminate in our favor. We have taken many means and methods to secure your preference and command your patronage. It will profit you not to distribute your trade, but to concentrate it beneath this roof. There are various substantial reasons why the foregoing advice is sound. . . . .

We sustain, on a broader scale than ever, our original and undeviating policy of selling only the worthiest qualities. This theory does not imply higher prices than current retail rates. The opposite is true. We invite comparisons with the completest confidence that you will find that prices range lower here than anywhere else in town, and styles, variety, grades and service are positively superior. Our advertisements and our offerings elicit quick recognition from the masses as well as the classes. Trashy goods, however cheap, are not desirable. The reverse is an axiom. We have no job lots or miscellaneous jumble to palm off as bargains. Every item we announce is absolutely reliable and genuinely guaranteed. However small the quotation you may depend upon the excellence of the article. The store right now is filled to overflowing with downright surprises. In addition to our regular resident New York representative we sent seven buyers to the markets. They did nobly. The diversity, elegance and price attractiveness of all the stocks are irrefutable testimony. Come see. .....

A Grand Climax for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A potential impetus was given business the first three days of this week that made the total sales surpass any former like period this season. We want the aggregate sales of the last three days to equal or exceed the first three. With that object in mind we have arranged a series of bargains that include every section of the store. The outspread will start the throb of trade a-fresh. And the charm of all the peerless cheapness is the consciousness that the goods are thoroughly fresh and seasonable. No relics or curios of last year or the years before. It is impossible for you to go amiss if you visit this store. You chance or risk nothing. We stand back of every dollar's worth of merchandise you buy here. If it isn't right, we make it right. And you're not asked or expected to take truck. There's no truck here. Not the ghost of a doubt about that. .....

Our Furniture and Carpet Business is Fairly Booming.

Our Furniture, Carpet, Drapery, Rug and Upholstering Organizations are as near ideal as they can possibly be made. During recent days these departments have been the scenes of exceptional activity. People are learning more and more that inferior qualities are unprofitable however low the price. We command the patronage of hundreds of buyers by selling only the best things and charging the same or less than others do for the unreliable sort. The grand custom that has flowed into the store tested the strength and facilities of our forces, but we have caught up now and can meet the next rush with cheerful promptness. You commit an inexcusable extravagance if you buy Furniture, Carpets or Draperies before examining our variety and styles and hearing our prices. .....

From a Social Standpoint

Johnson—Rosenfeld.

Last night the beautiful apartments of the Concordia club rooms were the scene of a brilliant gathering of people to witness the marriage of Miss Blanche Rosenfeld and Mr. Samuel Johnson, of Cincinnati.

The reception and dining rooms were elaborately decorated with palms and every variety of tropical plants. Cut flowers were used in the general adornment with artistic taste, and the bridal party, as they formed promptly at 8 o'clock, proved a most picturesque group. Rabbi Marx performed the ceremony in his graceful and impressive manner, and there was beautiful music to add to the pleasure of the occasion.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eleanor Rosenfeld, and Miss Etta Greenberg. The groom was attended by Messrs. Harry Ackerland and Hugo Morton, and the ushers were: Mr. Henry L. Rosenfeld, Dr. Summerfield, Messrs. Leopold Haas, Benjamin Elsas, David Eichberg, Simon Rosenfeld, Charles Meyer, of New Orleans, and David Johnson, of Cincinnati.

The bride wore a superb toilette of white moire antique baconet brocade. The corsage was veiled in point duchesse lace. Lilies of the valley added to the exquisite delicacy of the toilette and she carried the same lovely flowers. Miss Rosenfeld wore pale rose moire bangoline, and carried LaFrance roses. Miss Greenburg wore ciel blue moire silk, the corsage made fluffy with chiffon draperies, and finished with pearl embroidery. She carried American beauty roses.

The bride as Miss Blanche Rosenfeld was notably a beauty, of the brilliant brunette type, and is among the most cultivated young women in Atlanta. She has been greatly admired since her debut, and always the recipient of charming attentions wherever she appeared.

Mr. Johnson, though a prominent and wealthy citizen of Cincinnati, is well known and popular in Atlanta, having frequently visited here. He has a large number of friends throughout the south, many of whom were present at the wedding last night.

Among them were, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Rosenfeld, Mr. David Johnson, Mr. Harry Ackerland and Mr. Morton, of Cincinnati; Mr. Charles Meyer, of New Orleans; Mr. B. I. Campe, of New York, and Mr. Thomas Cunningham, of Cincinnati. Miss Rosa Hirsch, of Columbus; Mrs. Watchel and Miss Watchel, of Macon.

The reception and banquet following the wedding ceremony was an elegant affair, many brilliant toasts being proposed to the happy bride and groom. The spacious ball room was thrown open, throughout the evening, and the occasion throughout was a happy and enjoyable one. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left at midnight for the north.

The news from Boston that Helen Kellar, of Alabama, had passed a most creditable examination for admission to the Harvard annex, presents to the world one of the most remarkable cases on record. She is possessed of only one sense, that of touch, being blind, deaf, scentless and tasteless. She was unknown to the faculty giving the examination, and not until she had successfully passed was her wonderful case fully realized.

Miss Kellar will at once enter Harvard annex, and is much younger than the majority of the freshman students.

Miss Kellar may be remembered as having visited Atlanta several years ago, when she came for treatment from one of Atlanta's eminent physicians, but all hope had been despaired of in regard to her lost senses.

She was born in Alabama in 1880, and her father, a well-known confederate veteran, was subsequently United States marshal. She lost the senses of sight, speech, hearing and smell at the age of eighteen months, and until the age of seven no attempt was made at her education. At that time she was taken to the Perkins school for the blind, in Boston, and placed under the special care of a Miss Sullivan, who devoted every interest to her. She acquired the power of articulation, and advanced in knowledge with a remarkable degree, far excelling the children enjoying equal advantages. Her last step in which she accomplished the Harvard examinations is undoubtedly the beginning of a wonderful career.

Among the peculiarities that characterize Miss Kellar's case is her remarkable appreciation of music, though she is unable to hear the slightest sound. She, like most of the blind, is possessed of the keenest sense of touch, and by placing her hand upon the throat of one singer, apparently feels the keenest appreciation of the voice and its every utterance. On one occasion, during the singing of a celebrated vocalist, she not only knew every note as it was uttered, but knew that the song was in German.

Woman's Club Art Display.

Yesterday afternoon the woman's club, in the Grand, was the scene of a brilliant gathering of ladies and gentlemen present to admire the artistic painting of Miss Everhart, who exhibited her work under the auspices of the art committee of the woman's club. The walls were adorned with a variety of beautiful specimens that have met with favorable criticisms in the art exhibitions of Chicago, Cincinnati and New York. There were original pictures, portraits and a number of remarkably clever copies from famous painters. The tapestry work was especially admired for its beauty and artistic merit, and there were several exquisite and unique studies that were among the many attractive features of the exhibit.

Among the original paintings meeting with enthusiastic praise were those entitled "A Dream of Lilies," "Dolce far niente," and "Her Favorite Flower." The latter subject presents in a graceful attitude the graceful figure of Mrs. William Larned, of New York city, a well-known woman, admired for her beauty and possessed of unusual artistic taste.

Among the portraits in the exhibit was that of the late Rev. C. M. Everhart, of Alabama, the father of the artist, and one of Mrs. Arthur Yager, a distinguished Kentucky beauty.

A study in chrysanthemums was beautiful, and the copies numbered among the most beautiful, that of Ferdinand Keller's "Scheherezade and the Sultan," an "Ideal Head by Greuze, the "Pleiades," by Elihu Bedder, in the buckram hangings, one universally admired was a copy of Potzelberger's "A Song Without Words."

Miss Everhart has studied in the art schools of Cincinnati and New York. Among those with whom she has studied may be mentioned L. C. Lutz and Mr. Noble, of Cincinnati; Chase, Robert Reed, of New York, also DuMond, whose "Baptism of Christ" may be remembered as conspicuously exhibited in the art gallery of the exposition.

Miss Everhart's paintings will probably adorn the walls of the club room, at the time of the coming federation.

There will be an important meeting of the Daughters of the Confederacy this morning in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association.

The wedding of Mrs. Fannie Wallace Anderson and Rev. Edward M. Green occurred last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin. Only the immediate family and a few personal friends were present at the ceremony, owing to recent death in the family. Chancellor Boggs, of Athens, a personal friend of both bride and groom, performed the ceremony in a beautifully impressive manner.

The bride is the daughter of the late Campbell Wallace, who was one of the most distinguished and beloved of Atlanta's pioneer citizens, and the widow of the late Major Robert Anderson, gallant in the confederacy.

She is a woman well known and beloved for her beautiful character, her charity and possessed of the many attributes that combine to make the lovable Christian woman.

The Rev. Edward Green is one of the most distinguished clergymen of the Presbyterian church of Kentucky. He is the pastor of the largest church in Danville, Ky., and carries his charming wife to a home where he is greatly respected and beloved.

Progressive whist was played till noon, when the first prize, an elegant clock, was won by Mrs. Clarence Knowles; the second, a cut glass pitcher, by Mrs. Thomas. The luncheon was served at a beautifully decorated table. Pink roses filled the cut glass vases and bowls and silver candlelabra enriched the beauty of the whole. Among the guests were: Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Mrs. Clarence Knowles, Mrs. J. W. English, Jr., Mrs. William Bailey Thomas, Mrs. Edward Peters, Mrs. St. Julien Ravenel, Mrs. Robert Ridley, Mrs. Harry Atkinson, Mrs. George Harris, Mrs. Barbour Thompson.

SOLICITOR FELKER RESIGNS.

Walton County Solicitor Is Now a Member of the General Assembly.

Mr. J. H. Felker, of Walton county, solicitor of the superior court, has sent his resignation to Governor Atkinson. He was elected a member of the general assembly at the recent election and resigns on that account. The resignation may be acted on by the governor today and Solicitor Felker's successor appointed.

Walton now claims to be the banner democratic county in the state and no man in the county was more instrumental in making the majority so large in that county as was Mr. Felker. In 1894 Governor Atkinson beat Hines only 161 votes in the county. This year his majority over Wright was 768. This year the legislative candidates, Messrs. Stone and Felker, beat the populist candidates 1,052 and 1,032 respectively.

THE PASSING THRONG.

"I have had enough of this goldbug literature in my mail," said a prominent manufacturer yesterday. "I got a letter from a New York house yesterday enclosing the third pamphlet on 'Bryanism and Anarchy.' Now I am a Bryan man as you know. I had written to that house that if it did not stop sending me that kind of stuff, we would quit doing business. Well, yesterday when I heard from it again, I telegraphed countermanding a big order which I had just sent on. I also wrote to two friends of mine to withdraw their business from the same house, and I met one of them on the streets here today and he told me that he would not give these fellows another cent's worth of trade. I wrote to another house a sharp letter for sending me their pamphlets against silver and they replied very promptly, apologising. I know of several silver men who have been taking their business away from banks and commercial houses which have been conspicuous in their interference in this campaign. Some people have felt this, too. They hardly knew what was hitting them, but they have been getting it in the neck for their officlousness and dictatorial manner. I know of one commission house in New York which is as sick as that St. Louis merchant who dismissed some of his employes because they were for free silver. When the people began to quit buying of him, he quickly squealed and published an apology. This game of coercion is one at which two can play, and when they try to coerce me, I am going back at them and let them know it, too. I have not found any of them yet so red-hot for McKinley that they would lose business on his account."

Judge George Gober was down yesterday from Marietta. His friends say that his race for a place on the supreme court bench is in fine shape.

Senator-Elect C. C. Gray, of Fort Valley, came up yesterday. He has been urged to make the race for president of the senate. He will be one of the most useful members in that body, having had valuable experience in the house.

Hon. Usher Thomasson, of Morgan county, who is in the city, is said to have received the largest majorities given to any democratic nominee for the house in the recent election.

"Chatham county's delegation will be the storm center in the next house," said a member-elect yesterday. "Chatham is torn into two factions and there is no interest there in any politics except what relates to the 'Citizens' or Liberal clubs. The Citizens' had the last delegation and passed several local measures. This session the Liberals control the delegation and they will devote themselves to repealing some of the special bills. One which is especially obnoxious to the liberals is the one which allows certain officers to hold two places at the same time. There will be a bitter fight over that. I see that Senator Geiger, who is from Bryan county, declines to say with what faction he will affiliate. He appears to be for Osborne for solicitor, although Fraser is counting on him. Fraser will be supported by Chatham's delegation in the house and if he gets Geiger, he will have practically all the representatives and senators from down that way. But Geiger is not identified with either faction and is keeping them guessing."

There is talk of Major Peter W. Meldrim, of Chatham, for chairman of the general judiciary committee. This gossip is irrespective of the race for the speakership. Major Meldrim will be one of the ablest lawyers in the assembly.

"The populists will put out a strong conservative ticket for the supreme court," said Judge J. K. Hines yesterday, "No, I will not be a candidate."

Being asked if Walter B. Hill would be on the ticket, Judge Hines replied that it is probable. It may be that Judge Samuel Lumpkin will be indorsed by the populists. "I would consider his retirement a loss to the supreme bench," said Judge Hines, "and personally I am for Him. I do not assume to speak for the party, but I feel that the spirit of the party is to nominate a strong conservative ticket."

FORMER ATLANTA MAN DEAD.—Telegrams received in Atlanta yesterday announced the death of Captain J. J. Thornton at his home in Memphis, Tenn. Captain Thornton was a resident of Atlanta for two years and was a prominent merchant, being connected with the Warren Grain Company, retiring during 1895, and returning to Memphis, his former home. Captain Thornton has many relatives and friends in Georgia.

Judge Seaborn Reese, of Sparta, came up yesterday afternoon. The contest in the northern circuit for judges waxes warmer every day. Three candidates are on the ground nearly all the time. Judge Sam Hardeman went home only a day or two ago, leaving Judge Worley, of Elbert, and Hon. A. G. McCurry, of Hart, here to keep the ball rolling. Judge Reese has the advantage of being the incumbent; but, taking it all in all, it is one of the most interesting races before the assembly.

Neither Mr. Jenkins nor Mr. Boifeuillet, candidates for speaker, has yet arrived on the scene of action. The race for president of the senate progresses with Messrs. Dunwoody, of Glenn, Berner, of Monroe, and Gray, of Houston, in the running; but the candidates for speaker remain away. Ex-Representative Boynton of Calhoun county, is here, and his friends are urging him to go into the race. The gentlemen from Putnam and Bibb began their race last year before the close of the session.

Captain Gus Little, of Columbus, has returned from Washington, having practically wound up the affairs of his office there, and he is back in Georgia to push his candidacy for the supreme bench. He was at the Aragon last night.

Colonel Tom Swift, member-elect of the house from Elbert, is here. He had one of the hardest campaigns in the state, but he won out by a very good majority. The interest in Elbert centered in the contest between Colonel Swift and his opponent, Mr. Vanduzer, independent, for the house. A serious shooting affray resulted from it on election day, but the wounded men are all getting well.

Congressman John W. Maddox, of the seventh, and Congressman Lon Livingston, of the fifth, were at democratic headquarters at the Kimball yesterday. Both of the nominees are confident of re-election.

J. B. Park, of Greenesboro, and U. B. Frost, a prominent planter of Troup county, were here.

J. W. McCurdy, of DeKalb, was in the city yesterday looking after his race for messenger of the house.

FUTURE DEALERS' LICENSE $100.

Tax Committee Investigates a Number of Petitions Asking for Relief.

The tax committee of the council met yesterday afternoon and passed upon a number of petitions of citizens asking for relief on account of overcharge in tax fees and for a reduction of licenses as ordained by the council. The most important matter before the committee was the petition of the Paine-Murphy Company, asking that the license fee of $200 assessed against the company be rescinded because the company had already taken out a brokers' license of $50. The committee finally agreed to make the amount $100 for the present year and the firm will have to pay that amount for doing a futures business.

Mrs. L. B. Jossey, of Decatur, died at Eufaula, Ala., Wednesday. She has many relatives and friends in Atlanta and Decatur. She had reached the advanced age of eighty years, and was apparently in good health up to a short time preceding her death.

HIGH WINDS AROUND NEW YORK

It Is Becoming Stormy Off the New England Coast.

The storm center continues off the coast of New York with a greater depression than yesterday.

High wind was reported last night with strong probability of gales by morning from Norfolk to Boston.

The weather continues cloudy north of Norfolk and on the gulf coast from Pensacola to southern Texas. It is clear elsewhere.

The high pressure covers Kansas and western Nebraska.

The presence of a low barometer in the east will create a tendency to a southerly drift across the lower Mississippi valley of this high pressure and thus continue in Georgia the pleasant weather of Wednesday.

The temperature in the northwest has risen since yesterday and is about ten degrees above the nominal. This is no doubt due to the backing in of the storm center near New York.

Threatening conditions will probably prevail by tonight from New York to South Dakota.

The lowest temperature is still over New England; the highest along the gulf coast is 66 degrees. Key West, Fla., reports 74 degrees.

Excepting the temperature of the coast stations, the temperature over the entire country last night was about 60 degrees.

Paine-Murphy Co.'s Cotton Letter.

Atlanta, Ga., October 14.—The undoing of straddles by Liverpool caused lower prices today. Prices declined 8 to 17 points, recovered part of this, but subsequently reacted and closed easy at a net decline of 14 to 16 points, with sales of 167,600 bales. Liverpool was lower for futures, and on moderate selling for Liverpool, southern and New York prices gave way. The decline was checked at one time, and a slight rally ensued on the publication of the semi-weekly movement at thirteen leading interior towns, showing a falling off in the receipts. The semi-weekly receipts were 116,000, against 118,000 in the previous week, 110,000 last year, and 143,000 in 1894. Shipments 97,000, against 104,000 last week, 70,000 last year and 111,000 in 1894. Liverpool was unchanged with sales of 14,000 bales. Futures there declined 3½ to 4 points. In Manchester cloths and yarns were dull. New Orleans declined 7 points on December. Spot cotton in New York declined ⅛c, with sales of 96 bales for spinning; 3,200 was delivered on contract; middling uplands 7 15-16c, against 9⅝c last year. Savannah and Norfolk declined 1-16c, and Augusta advanced 1-16c. New Orleans sold 6,000, Memphis 3,000, Augusta 1,495, Mobile 1,200, Norfolk 1,122, Savannah 1,100 and St. Louis 550 bales. The port receipts were 56,347 against 50,000 last week and 37,245 last year. Augusta received today 2,571 bales, against 1,765 last week and 1,695 last year; Memphis 4,263, against 13,006 last week and 7,480 last year. Houston expects tomorrow 11,000 to 12,000, against 7,191 last year; New Orleans 10,000 to 11,000, against 12,297 last year.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Letter.

New York October 14.—(Special.)—The market was weak today. January opened at 7.95, rallied to 7.98, dropped to 7.85 and closed at 7.86, with the tone easy. The cause of the decline was the pressure of spot cotton from the south and the indifferent demand from the spinning interests. After January had sold at 7.88 it rallied to 7.94 on news from New Orleans, showing symptoms of a diminished movement. The receipts in the near future form the key of the situation. If they fall off we shall advance sharply. If they continue heavy prices may continue to sag.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, October 14.—There has been little change in the general conditions of the dry goods market today. On the part of sellers there is a general steadiness.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

Nek York, October 14.—Spot cotton here declined 1-6c.; middling uplands, 7 15-16c. Liverpool was unchanged on the spot with sales of 14,000 bales. Futures there declined ½ to 4 points.

The decline today was due principally to sympathy with Liverpool. Prices there weakened on the undoing of straddles. Liverpool and the south sold, and local operators who recently bought turned sellers, and in the absence of buyers prices gave way. There was a rally at one time on the semi-weekly statement of receipts showing a falling off in the movement, but prices soon weakened again on renewed selling and slowly declined, closing at about the lowest figures of the day. The semi-weekly receipts at thirteen leading interior towns were 116,000 bales.

THE STOCK MARKET.

A Bullish Day with Only a Slight Advance Scored.

New York, October 14.—During the early trading at the stock exchange today the market ruled active and strong. A very confident tone characterized the business, and there was good buying for both local and foreign account. Quite a number of operators espoused the bull cause, being influenced by higher prices for American securities in London, large gold engagements and the favorable statement just issued by the bureau of statistics of the export trade of the country for September. London houses were credited with taking fully 20,000 shares, principally St. Paul, Louisville and Nashville and the low priced issues. The gold engagements reported today foot up $1,500,000, and, according to authorities, the amount to be shipped this way by steamers leaving Europe tomorrow, Saturday and Tuesday next will aggregate $10,000,000. The heaviness of sterling exchange, posted rates having been reduced ½c to $4.81½ and $4.85½, is interpreted as meaning that the movement this way will continue for some time. This is borne out by the excellent showing made by the trade statistics for September. That month the increase in the exports of breadstuffs, provisions, mineral oils and cotton is $20,641,132 as compared with 1895. Imports for the same months this year have been light, and this is also in our favor. The advance in stock prices during the morning session ranged from ½ to 3¼ per cent, the Anthracite, Industrials and Grangers being the leaders. Lackawanna rose 3 to 156, Delaware and Hudson 3¼ to 123½; Cotton Oil Preferred 2½ to 50½; Sugar 1⅞ to 109; St. Paul 1⅜ to 71; Rock Island 1¼ to 61⅛ and Chicago Gas 1⅜ to 61½. Tobacco was weak throughout, and on attempts to realize the price broke from 76 to 71⅝@72⅛. Late in the day money on call suddenly rose to 10 per cent bid, and this started a moderate selling movement. A reactionary tendency in the cereal market also had an adverse influence. Reports of an advance in the Bank of England rate to 4 per cent tomorrow, and a belief that the St. Paul earnings for the second week of October will be unfavorable, also induced realizations. The decline from the top of the day was equal to ½@1⅞ per cent, the latter in Manhattan. A feature of the day was the heavy offerings of money by Morgan brokers after call loans had been bid up to 10 per cent. In the specialties, Illinois steel jumped 3¾ to 45, dropped to 40⅛ and closed at 41¾. Speculation left off steady in tone. Net changes show gains of ⅛@⅞ per cent. Tobacco lost 3⅛ and Manhattan and Northwest ⅜ per cent each.

Money on call active at 5@10 per cent; last loan at 6 and closing offered at 6; prime mercantile paper 8@9 per cent.

Bar silver 64⅝c.

Sterling exchange heavy with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.81@4.81¼ for 60 days and $4.83⅝@4.84 for demand; posted rates $4.81½@4.84½; commercial bills $479½@4.80¼.

Government bonds higher.
State bonds quiet.
Railroad bonds strong.
Silver at the board was steadier.

London, October 14.—Bar silver 29⅝. Consols 108⅛ for money and 108⅝ for the account. Paris advices quote 3 per cent rentes 101 francs, 47½ centimes for the account.

Closing Stock Review.

New York, October 14.—New York News Bureau: The stock market enjoyed a decided advance in the morning hours, owing to the better attitude of London, the more cheerful political feeling and the announcement of large engagements of gold for shipment.

In the railway list the improvement extended to 1@2 per cent, and in the Industrial group some of the advances were even larger.

In the afternoon the effect of realizing sales became somewhat apparent and reactions were general, assisted by a sharp bidding up of money rates and influenced by a relapse in the grain and provision markets.

American Tobacco was exceptionally weak, falling about 4 per cent and recovering only part of the loss.

Earnings of the Baltimore and Ohio for the month of September was $2,227,810, an increase of $95,310.

Government bonds were off ¼ per cent for government old 4's registered, and up⅛ for the new 4's.

IN OUR FAVOR.

For Nine Months Our Exports Exceed Imports $143,971,242.

Washington, October 14.—The treasury gold reserve at the close of business today stood at $123,504,585. The day's withdrawals at New York were $280,800.

Chief Ford, of the bureau of statistics, reports that the total values of exports of merchandise from the United States during September, 1896, and during the nine months ending September 30, 1896, as compared with similar exports during the corresponding periods of the proceeding year, were as follows:

In September last the exports exceeded the imports by $34,272,466. In September, 1895, the excess of imports over exports was $6,765,257. During the nine months ended September 30th the excess of exports over imports was $143,971,242, and the excess of imports for the corresponding period of 1895 was $43,115,673.

In September, 1896, the imports of gold exceeded the exports by $34,098,080, and during the nine months the excess of imports over exports was $9,318,435.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Had a Slight Setback Yesterday.

Chicago, October 14.—Wheat prices were subjected to some wild gyrations today, but throughout the entire session there was hesitation in the tone and lack of enthusiasm on the bull side. There was no authentic news on which to boom prices; in fact, the trend of the information was the other way. In the last fifteen minutes there was a flurry when a sharp bulge of 1c, followed by a break of equal proportions took place. It was said that New York had orders for cargoes for India, but the report lacked verification. At the opening prices were upon the strength carried over from yesterday, but the failure of Liverpool to reflect our appreciation of yesterday caused holders to sell freely and a retrogression action set in. December wheat opened 70⅝@70⅞c, sold between 71 and 69¼@69⅜c, closing at 69⅜@69½c, ⅞c under yesterday. Cash wheat was irregular, closing about 1c under yesterday.

Corn showed agreement with the motion of wheat. At the opening buying was encouraged by higher Liverpool cables and by large inspections from store, but the quick decline in wheat exerted a depressing influence and prices declined. May corn opened from 29⅝ to 29¾c, declined to 27¾c, closing at 28¼c, ⅜c under yesterday. Cash corn ruled easy and about ½c lower.

Oats at the opening took strength and vigor from the adjoining pits, but lost it when weakness assumed control of the situation. May oats closed ⅛c under yesterday. Cash oats were easy at a decline of ¼c.

Provisions—The support was withdrawn from product right at the opening this morning, and prices fell away sharply. A decline of 5c in hog values was ostensibly the immediate factor, but the recent advances were apparently viewed as of doubtful merit and holders were willing sellers to obtain profits. At the close January pork was 25c under yesterday and January lard and ribs 27½c lower.

Paine-Murphy & Co.'s Grain Letter.

Atlanta, October 14.—The feature in the wheat market today has been on heavy selling by Chicago holders and the elevator interest, which had a depressing effect on prices, causing a break of about 1½c. per bushel. The strong opening was on reports from San Francisco stating that that market had advanced 6c. per cental yesterday and that five cargoes had been sold to go to Australia. Seventy-one cents for December was touched, when the selling became extremely heavy and prices quickly declined, reaching 69⅜c. There was little reaction till just before the close, when the market showed a sharp advance of over 1c. per bushel on large purchases by some of the early sellers and buying orders from San Francisco. New York and foreigners cables did not show the strength they did yesterday, Liverpool closing a trifle lower, with Berlin and Paris higher. The cash demand on the break seemed to be good, but we hear of no important transaction. St. Louis reported a sale of flour for South African account, but did not mention the amount. Pillsbury reported a sale of 60,000 barrels of flour yesterday. Clearances were moderate at 275,000 bushels, making a total of about 800,000 bushels for three days. Northwestern receipts were less than last year and last week, but still large at 867 cars. Primary points received 1,099,000 bushels, against 1,323,000 last week and 1,154,000 last year, while Chicago had 355 cars. The market has been very active and nervous, losing almost the entire gain established lately. It looks very much as if the big holders have been selling out again, as some of them did a short time ago, and unless foreign news continues very bullish and the market is well supported, prices may likely go lower.

Coarse grains held steady, closing a trifle below yesterday. Receipts of corn were heavy, but shipments were almost as large. Clearances were light, and indicates a falling off of the export demand, due to the advance. We look for very large receipts and depressed prices the balance of this month.

Provisions were the weakest of the entire list, and closed at about bottom prices for the day. The heavy selling yesterday by packers was continued this morning. Smaller holders liquidated freely, and there was little or no demand. This quite clearly indicates what we have mentioned previously, that packers have been advancing the price in order to make better sales against the probable large run of hogs expected in November an dDecember, and from the manner they have been selling the past two days and the quick drop in prices, inclines us still to the opinion that the market cannot sustain any great advance.

From The New York Stockholder.

Grain receipts still keep up from a thousand to twelve hundred cars per day, mostly corn. The advance in wheat has not increased in the least receipts of winter wheat at interior points. The millers say that it is more difficult every day to get sufficient supplies and keep their mills running. The demand for flour is steadily increasing.

We have had no weather yet to put corn into condition for gathering. It is still green and very sappy. The large receipts of corn recently come from those districts where farmers prefer to sell the old corn rather than build cribs for the new crop.

We have made excellent progress the past ten days in seeding winter wheat. The early sown is now up and from two to four inches high. A full acreage has been put out; in fact, it looks very much as if the advance in price had stimulated farmers to increase their acreage over 1895.

The spring wheat now largely thrashed; the stock thrashing is practically done; the late thrashings are not to be compared at all in quantity or quality with 1895. Considerable of the crop was caught by frost, and in consequence will be worthless. While the movement for the next thirty days will be free, it will not be as large as it ordinarily is at this time of the year.

The land for the fall plowing is in normal condition. Up to this time more plowing has been done than at this date a year ago.

TRUE BILLS GALORE

MANY INDICTMENTS ARE FILED

Yesterday was a field day with the United States grand jury and true bills in felony cases were found in great number. It was the first day felony cases had been considered since the grand jury was sworn and there was much interest in the result of the day's work.

The men was are charged with having attacked Deputy Collector McAfee and Deputy Marshal Sterling Roberts, one night several weeks ago, near Buford, on the line of the Southern railway, were the first to meet the attention of the grand jury. The men accused were Arthur Strickland, Will Strickland, Harrison Wilson and Gus Humphries. The two internal revenue officers were returning home from a "moonshine" raid, when several pistol shots rang out in the night air and McAfee's scalp was pierced by a bullet. Full evidence on the case was brought out before the grand jury yesterday and the result was five true bills against the men. The bills were worded so that if the prisoners are not convicted on one bill they can be tried on another. In this way the prosecuting officers expect to catch them "coming and going."

True bills were found against Tony Hill and Edgar Bennett, of Fulton county, charged with counterfeiting. The witnesses swore that the indicted men were caught in the act of passing silver counterfeit dollars.

A true bill was issued against Tyler Stone, of Gwinnett county, charging counterfeiting. W. A. White, of Floyd county, came under the same charge. Bart Penney, also of Floyd county, had a true bill charging counterfeiting filed against him.

Among the other true bills charging counterfeiting was one against Thomas Jefferson Lewis, of Milton county, and one against Merrill Lee Goodwin, of Milton county.

Richard Thrasher, of Fulton county, was charged with violating the postal laws and a true bill was found against him.

A true bill was found against J. Rawson Awirey, a village postmaster in Milton county. A witness swore that a check came addressed to George W. Tatum for $2.03, and that Awtrey signed Tatum's name for the check and drew the money.

William H. Camerrell, of Fulton county, was another against whom a bill charging a violation of the postal laws was filed.

Richard Moody was indicted for violating the postal laws by sending obscene letters through the mails. Witness Ford, of Augusta, who had been knocked down by Moody in the postoffice a few minutes before the case was called, appeared before the jury and explained how he had been assaulted and testified concerning the obscene letter.

True bills were found against Jordan Wehunt, Allen Carroll, Sam Anderson and Alex Lingerfelt, of Dawson, all of whom are charged with whitecapping. It was charged that they whipped Sandford A. Freeman and his wife for exposing "moonshine" evidence to internal revenue officers.

The testimony in all of the felony cases was interesting and in some cases sensational. Judge Newman will have enough felony cases to keep him busy for a long time when he reaches them. So far this term he has confined his attention almost entirely to cases that come for violation of the internal revenue laws.

A RUN ON THE BANK.

Ward and Vokes kept a large audience of Atlanta theatergoers in a roar of laughter last night in the presentation of their ever popular comedy, "A Run on the Bank."

The play was resplendent with bright and popular musical interlopations. The specialities were excellent and the show taken altogether was as good, if not better, than the rendition of it seen here last season.

Ward and Vokes are two comedians who are always popular with Atlanta audiences. The people manifested their appreciation of these artists last night by giving them continual applause and many encores. The comedians were at their best and kept the audience in a roar of laughter the entire evening.

The show made a hit, which was a repetition of that of its other seasons here and the fun was even funnier than before. Ward and Vokes have a reputation of being able to furnish as much fun in the same space of time as any other two men living. There was plenty of fun last night and their original wit caught the audience. They will be seen at matinee today and tonight.

Louis James at the Lyceum.

Mr. Louis James presented "The Gladiators" to a good audience at the Lyceum last night. Mr. James is probably the best "Spartacus" that Atlantians have ever seen, and his production last night, that was exceedingly well staged, made a big hit with the legitimate-loving people present.

THE LITTLE TROOPER.

Della Fox Will Sing the Catchy Opera Friday Evening.

Della Fox will open her engagement Friday evening at the Grand with "The Little Trooper," a delightful operetta full of clever comedy and particularly to be recommended for its cleanness.

The music is bright and catchy. There are many pretty numbers, especially the song sung by Clairette and the jolly, rollicking chorus at the opening of the third act. There is not a tedious minute in the opera and the music is well suited to the moods of varying humor.

Miss Fox has a company of sixty-five people and two carloads of scenery.

At the matinee Saturday and Saturday evening the bill will be changed to "Fleur de Lis."

The advance sale of seats, which began Wednesday morning, has assumed splendid proportions, which goes to prove that Atlantians know and appreciate a good attraction.

SOWING THE WIND.

A prominent critic, in reviewing the play, said: "'Sowing the Wind' is a brilliant exception to plays which, in the lax method of their construction, have tended to keep the dramatist outside the literary circle. It is as much a literary triumph as a dramatic one, and it has all the elements which belong to a strong acting play. The theme is treated with so much delicacy, the language is so clean and forceful, that the whole, from an intellectual standpoint, forms a dramatic revelation. The conception of character is keen and the grouping excellent."

Rhea Next Week.

Rhea comes to the Lyceum on Wednesday of next week, with three performances, presenting "Merchant of Venice" Wednesday night; "Josephine, Empress of Mance," at the matinee Thursday, and "Mary, Queen of Scots," Thursday night. The costumes worn by Rhea in her three productions are the most elaborate ever seen on an Atlanta stage. The company supporting her this season is said to be strong.

DANCING.

Young Men May Be Properly Instructed Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Night classes for gentlemen will open at the Aragon Tuesday night, October 20th. Nights, Tuesdays and Thursdays; hours, 8 to 10. Address the Misses Morris, 240 Hilliard street, city. oct15-5t

THEY FOUGHT TO A FINISH.

DR. BROOKS AND MR. MORRIS HAVE A DIFFICULTY.

Both Men Punish Each Other Until They Tire—Indictments Will Follow.

A fist fight, in which two prominent citizens of the city played the leading parts, occurred yesterday at noon. The contest was quickly over, but was of a very severe nature while it lasted. The two gentlemen were Mr. Charlie A. Morris, of the firm of Morris & Childs, the transfer men, and Dr. Edward L. Brooks, who has an office in the Gould building.

The trouble started over a business misunderstanding, and the fight was carried on in the ancient manner. It was a plain old-fashioned fist fight, no weapons being used and none displayed. The fight occurred in the office of Mr. Morris, on the corner of Walton and Broad streets, where Dr. Brooks had gone to see Mr. Morris in regard to a transfer wagon of his which was late in arriving at the house of Dr. Brooks.

Dr. Brooks's glasses were the first thing that were hit. His adversary knocked the left lense into his eye and shattered it. On the nose of Dr. Brooks there is an ugly mark made by the bridge of the spectacles as they were being driven into his nose. Dr. Brooks's nose is badly damaged, being very much swollen and very red.

Mr. Morris seems to be uninjured, except for the fact that his right thumb is swollen and appears to be sprained. "I have nothing to say about the matter at all," said Mr. Morris. "Dr. Brooks came into my office to see me about a business matter, and said something to me which I, or any other gentleman, would have resented. I did so and as far as I am concerned the matter is at an end."

"I have just rented a house from Mr. Woodside, the renting agent, and had engaged Mr. Morris to transfer by household effects for me.' said Dr. Brooks. "He said that he would have the wagon at my former residence for me at 10 o'clock. At 12 o'clock I went around to his office to find out why it had not come. Mr. Morris said that he did not say that he would have it for me at 10 o'clock, and I replied that he did.

"I told him that if he wanted to deny it, of course that it was all right, but that I thought that he ran his business on business principles. Mr. Morris said that if I said that he did not do that that I was a liar. I then told him that he was a liar, too, upon which he hit me and knocked off my glasses. I am a little near sighted and was, of course, at a disadvantage after that. We fought to a finish and no one interfered. As soon as possible I shall go before the grand jury and have Mr. Morris indicted for assault and battery."

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

ROWE IS IN JAIL.—J. J. Rowe, now under a ten years' sentence for perjury, whose attorneys have just filed a bill of exceptions in the supreme court, was yesterday transferred from the Chattahoochee comps to the county jail, where he will be held until the result of the action of the supreme court is known. The filing of the bill of exceptions acts as a supersedias in the case.

HARVEY HILL ADMITTED TO THE BAR.—Mr. Harvey Hill was admitted to the bar yesterday afternoon before Judge Lumpkin and the board of attorneys who were appointed as special examiners. Mr. Hill passed an excellent examination and received the congratulations of his friends upon the manner in which he answered the questions propounded to him.

JUROR GOES TO JAIL.—William Dupree, a juror in the second division of the city court, was sent to jail for contempt of court yesterday morning by Judge Berry. The juror was charged with being in an intoxicated condition when he entered the courtroom yesterday morning. He will be released from prison this morning at 8 o'clock.

VERDICT AGAINST THE RAILROAD.—McCullough Bros. were yesterday given a verdict of $300 in the city court against the Georgia railroad. The firm claimed that it had sustained a loss of freight on account of the negligence of the road.

A RECEIVER IS APPOINTED.—Mr. C. S. Northen was yesterday appointed receiver of the stock of goods of Fox & Snelling, and the business will be conducted under an order of court until the case is settled.

A NEGRO MAN BOUND OVER.—Tom Spears, a negro man, was bound over to the city criminal court yesterday by Justice Foute, on the charge of trespass. The prosecutor in the case was Mr. Forrest Adair. The negro had been cutting trees from off his property. His bond was fixed at $100, which he failed to make.

DR. M'DONALD TO PREACH TONIGHT.—At 7:30 o'clock Dr. Henry McDonald will preach at the Associate Reformed Church, on the corner of Loyd and Garnett streets. There will be two services Friday—at 3 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.—conducted by Rev. D. G. Philips, of Bartow, Fla. He will remain several days and hold two services a day at this church. The Lord's supper will be administered at 11 o'clock Sabbath morning.

ATLANTA MAN HONORED.—Charles A. Calhoun, a young man of this city, has been appointed private secretary to General Wade Hampton. Mr. Calhoun's appointment was made yesterday. He is a son of Hon. W. L. Calhoun, of this city, and has a fine future before him. The following telegram from Washington tells of the appointment:

"Washington, October 14.—(Special.)—Charles A. Calhoun, a bright young man of Atlanta, has been appointed private secretary to General Wade Hampton, commissioner of railroads, at a salary of $1,400 per annum. Mr. Calhoun has finished a law course at Georgetown law school here. He is connected with the well-known Calhoun family."

COURTHOUSE WILL BE ERECTED.—Since the county commissioners of DeKalb county have decided to erect a new courthouse without any regard to the meeting held by the people of the county some time ago, it would seem that those interested in keeping the special tax from being levied have given up the fight. It is said that work will begin on the new court house as soon as full arrangements can be made for its erection. The tax will doubtless be collected, and since there is hardly any way in which the people can help themselves, the matter will most likely be settled harmoniously.

FOOTBALL THIS AFTERNOON.—An interesting game of football will be played this afternoon between the Atlanta football team and the McPherson post team. Both the teams are good ones and both are in fine training. The game will be a lively one and the winners will have a hard fight for their victory. The soldiers have taken a great amount of interest in football this year and have organized an excellent team and one that gives promise of putting up some good games.

WHISKY MAKES HER YELL.—Josie Carlton, the old negro woman, was tried in the police court yesterday afternoon and sent to the stockade for ten days. Josie is a freak. Bad whisky seems to go to her throat, for her mouth opens and there issues therefrom one continuous discordant yell from the time she imbibes until the sobers.

Y. M. C. A. MASS MEETING.—There will be a mass meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association on the night of the 22d instant at the building. Delicious refreshments will be served, and an enjoyable musical programme rendered. The affairs of the association will be discussed, including the swimming pool, which will be built in the near future, and all members interested in the nat are urged to be present.

FAMOUS DOCTOR DEAD

IN BAD HEALTH THREE YEARS

He Was the Son of the Famous Doctor Who Discovered the Elixir of Life and Nephew of Daniel Webster.

Dr. C. E. Brown-Sequard, who was probably one of the most scientific men in the south, died yesterday morning at 5 o'clock from the effects of a sunstroke which he received last summer. At the time of his death he was living in a residence on Chamberlin street, where he had come in order that he might receive better medical treatment than could be obtained at his hame near East Lake.

The sunstroke, which was the cause of his death, was received last summer during the heated term. He never fully recovered from the effects of it, although he appeared to be getting better for a time. For the last three weeks he has been unconscious, and did not gain control of his mind until just before his death, when he called his wife and daughter and the valet, who has attended him in all of his sickness, to his bedside and spoke to them in an intelligent manner, and gave them his parting instructions.

He has been in bad health for the last three years, and has required constant attention. He was a great student, and often would spend the night in reading works of a scientific nature. Dr. Brown-Sequard was the only son of the famous Dr. Brown-Sequard, who discovered the elixir which it was claimed would restore youth to the aged. He was also the demonstrator of the physiology of the spinal cord, and published a book on the workings of the nerves and the sensations of the body.

Dr. C. E. Brown-Sequard was born in Paris in the year 1856. He was educated in Paris and took there a medical degree. He practiced for some time in Paris, and then came to America to complete his studies. After his course of studies had been finished in this country he practiced medicine in the Bellevue hospital, in New York.

He was very fond of travel, and never stayed long in any city. He had been in Atlanta about three years. About ten years ago he married Miss M. Elizabeth Dyke, of Georgetown, Ky., and she and their little daughter survives him. Dr. Brown-Sequard was well known to the medical profession of the world, and he was a recognized authority on his special branches of study.

His funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, and he will be laid to rest at Westview cemetery.

MAYOR KING USES VETO PEN.

Mayor King has vetoed an ordinance adopted by the council at its last meeting directing that hexagon sidewalk blocks be laid on Capitol avenue from Hunter street to Crumley street. The reason given for disapproving the ordinance is that the paper is not properly drawn.

Mayor King called the attention of City Attorney Anderson to the matter and that official gives it as his opinion that the wording of the sidewalk ordinance is illegal. He says that the law requires the adoption of an ordinance directing the residents of a street to put down certain kinds of sidewalk material. The present ordinance simply ordains that sidewalk blocks be laid without directing that the citizens be properly notified.

The matter will probably be straightened out at the next meeting of the council by the adoption of an ordinance properly written.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

SUITS FOR $20,000

CASES ARE NOW PENDING

Miss Alice Sterchi Was Given a Verdict of $5,000 Yesterday Morning in the City Court.

As a result of the runaway street car that rattled down Alabama street and into Pryor street on September 29, 1894, two damage suits have been filed and are now pending against the Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company in the first division of the city court.

The suits were filed a number of months ago by Professor T. A. E. Means and his wife, alleging that the latter, who was a passenger on the wild car, was seriously and permanently injured by being thrown from one side of the car to the other as it ran amuck against the belgian blocks.

The car upon which Mrs. Lucile Means was a passenger left Broad and Marietta streets for West End. The allegations contained in the petition filed by Mrs. Means show that the car passed over the Broad street bridge very rapidly. When the corner of Alabama street was reached the car darted down Alabama street instead of going out Broad street.

The speed of the car down Alabama street is said to have been very great, as the brakes were not in working order and the motorman failed to reverse the current. It is claimed that the rope on the trolley was rotten and when the trolley wheel slipped the overhead wire, the rope broke, thus making it impossible for the motorman to check the speed of the car.

At Pryor street the car followed the curve and proceeded out that street until it was stopped on the belgian blocks.

Mrs. Means claims she was seriously and permanently injured, as she was thrown from side to side of the car, finally falling on her back across the wheel car guard between the seats, where she was rescued in an almost unconscious condition. Mrs. Means says her injuries are permanent and of a most serious nature. She sues for $15,000 damages.

In connection with the suit Professor T. A. E. Means, her husband, also filed suit for $5,000. The cases were reached in the city court yesterday morning. The defense is represented by N. J. & T. A. Hammond, while the plaintiffs are represented by Hillyer, Alexander & Lambdin. The cases will consume the remainder of the week.

Verdict of the Sterchi Case.

The Sterchi damage case, which has been on trial for several days before Judge Ried, in the city court, was concluded yesterday. The jury awarded a verdict of $5,000 to the plaintiff, Miss Alice Sterchi, the verdict to include the costs of the case in court.

Miss Sterchi sued the Brown & King Supply Company for damages she alleges to have received by falling into a sewer eye on Hunter street. She claimed the Brown & King Supply Company was negligent in leaving the coal chute in a dangerous condition. The amount sued for was $5,000. She was represented by Arnold & Arnold, and the defendant was represented by Rosser & Carter.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY NIGHT.

Annual Services in Memory of Veterans Sunday Night.

The annual memorial services of Camp 159, Confederate Veterans, will be held at the First Methodist church next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and promises to be of unusual interest.

Lieutenant Colonel H. F. Starke.
Major General F. M. B. Young.
Sergeant George B. Forbes.
Major Madison Bell.

Dr. A. R. Holderby and ex-Governor W. J. Northen will make addresses. Mrs. James D. Carter will sing a solo entitled "The Soldier of the Cross," and the excellent choir of the First Methodist church will have charge of the music. All invited, especially the friends and relatives of the deceased comrades.

What you want when you are ailing is a medicine that will cure you. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and be convinced of its merit.

AN ENTERPRISING FIRM.

Messrs. Byck Bros. & Co., the Pushing Shoe Retailers Doubling Their Store Room.

Whitehall street will soon have another handsome retail establishment; in fact, there will be no handsomer store in the city than the one the above gentlemen are now putting up. Their present quarters being entirely inadequate to accommodate their constantly increasing trade, they have rented the adjoining store, No. 29 Whitehall street, and, in conjunction with their present place, No. 27 Whitehall street, they will have, when completed, the largest and best appointed retail shoe store in the southern states, and will be surpassed by few in the country. The wall between the stores will not be arched, but has been entirely removed, beautiful iron columns being substituted for it. The old iron front has been taken out and a complete and handsome modern iron and glass front will be put in its place. The windows will be the largest in the city, being 14 feet long by 7 feet deep, having a floor space of 180 square feet, which will be covered by the finest pure white marble, backed by French plate mirrors.

The inside of the store will be finished in polished oak, and the shelving will be interspersed with beveled plate mirrors and polished oak columns.

The ceiling of these stores will be of steel, something entirely new; the embossing on same will be a very rich design. The store, taken all in all, will be such as Atlanta, the metropolis of the south, has been greatly in need of for years past. The stock of Byck Bros. & Co. has always been strictly up to date, but with the various handsome styles that are out this season, their stock will be without a peer.

This firm caters for all classes of trade, but makes a specialty of fine and medium grade footwear, upon stylish and foot-form lasts. These gentlemen have been very successful in Atlanta, and their present venture will doubtless reward them for the enterprise they have shown; courtesy to their patrons, popular prices and a thorough understanding of their business, will certainly bring them many new customers in their new establishment; and they deserve it.

CAPTAIN HALL IS WELL.

After a week of severe illness Captain Lyman Hall, president of the Georgia School of Technology, is able to be at his desk once more.

Captain Hall was taken sick just as he had finished the hardest work of the entire year. That work was the examining and placing of the many new students.

The school is now in fine condition and all the students are doing well. President Hall is well pleased with the work so far and there is every reason to believe that the school will reach its highest standard this year.

The students and the teachers are greatly interested in the work and good results will naturally follow. Professor Wood is training the football team and all the men who are members of it are doing fine work. The team gives promises of being of the best in Georgia this year.

LEVERING TO COME

WILL BE HEARD AT COLUMBIA

The cold water candidate for president, Hon. Joshua Levering, of Maryland, will arrive in Atlanta tomorrow morning on his campaigning tour, and will speak here tomorrow night.

Mr. Levering will speak at the Columbia theater. The prohibitionists of the city are making extensive arrangements for the speaking, and they propose to give their standard bearer the right sort of ovation. They are stirring around among those of their faith, and those who do not agree with them, creating all the enthusiasm they can.

Mr. Levering is on a speaking tour through the south. He is making a general campaign, and is not making a specialty of the doubtful states. He doesn't regard this as necessary, for in a confidential way he admits that he does not expect to occupy the white house. Georgia is as good territory for cold water doctrines as Illinois or Michigan.

Mr. Levering's speech here will, without doubt, attract a large gathering. Mr. A. A. DeLoach, Mr. J. O Perkins and Mr Sibley are making preparations for the speaking.

Hon. Joshua Levering is from Baltimore, and is the senior member of the great coffee importing firm of Levering & Co., of that city, where he was born, and in which he has always resided.

He is not only widely and favorably known because of his extensive business relations and connections, but because of the active interest he has always manifested in religious work. He united with the Seventh Baptist church of Baltimore in 1858, and has been superintendent of the Eutaw Place Baptist Sunday school for sixteen years.

He was one of the originators of the American Baptist Education society in 1888, and has been its treasurer since the beginning.

For many years he has been president of the American Baptist Publication Society, and is chairman of the board of trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, of Louisville, the most important Baptist school in the United States.

Since 1887 he has been president of the Maryland Home of Refuge. He was elected president of the Young Men's Christian Association of his native city in 1885, and has been unanimously re-elected every year since. He is a member of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States and Canada.

His donations to schools, colleges and churches have been large and frequent. His recent gift of $1,000 to the endowment fund of Mercer college brings him very near to Georgia Baptists.

Mr. Levering has been a member of the prohibition party since 1884. He was a candidate for governor of Maryland on the prohibition ticket in 1894, polling the largest vote the party ever received in that state.

As candidate for president in 1896 Mr. Levering has made an extensive tour of the north and west, and has created a profound impression in every city he has visited. He is an accomplished and eloquent speaker, and halls and opera houses where he has spoken have been everywhere crowded to their utmost capacity with eager and interested listeners.

As Mr. Levering is probably the only presidential candidate who will visit Atlanta this year, the Columbia theater is sure to be packed next Friday night.
